

FORCE STATE PAROLE REFORM

Coolidge Enlists 10,000 Prohibition Sleuths

DRYS JOIN WETS IN DECLARING ACT ILLEGAL

Local Officials Made
U.S. Volsteaders.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
Washington, D. C., May 21.—(Special.)—An executive order authorizing the appointment of state, county or municipal officers as federal prohibition officers was signed May 8 by President Coolidge, and made public by the treasury today. It means the addition of an estimated 10,000 "dollar a year" volunteers and amateur "sleuths" to the already enlarged enforcement army of Gen. Lincoln C. Andrews, prohibition enforcement chief.

This move, which was made at the request of Gen. Andrews and which reverses the position taken by President Grant during his administration, was met by immediate and bitter opposition by both wets and drys in the senate.

Wipes Out State Lines.
It means, according to Prohibition Commissioner Jones, that an Iowa or a Michigan constable or sheriff can cross the state lines and raid violators of the prohibition laws in any other state. State lines are wiped out for the local and state enforcement officer. Wets predict that the country will be overrun by Anti-Saloon league zealots, who, in their eagerness to see the law enforced, will obtain local appointments as peace officers, justices or constables, and run rampant over the country.

The President's Order.
The order, which is inoperative in states that have statutory provisions forbidding state officers from holding federal jobs, reads as follows:

"In order that they may more efficiently function in the enforcement of the national prohibition act, any state, county, or municipal officer may be appointed, at a normal rate of compensation, as prohibition officer of the treasury department to enforce the provisions of the national prohibition act and acts supplemental thereto in states and territories, except in those states having constitutional or statutory provision against state officers holding office under the federal government."

Opposed by Wets, Drys.
The order raised a big commotion in the senate where its constitutionality was challenged by Senator Bruce (Dem., Md.), who asserted it was a violation of state rights. Senators Edge (Rep., N. J.) and Goff (Rep., W. Va.) were severe in expressing their amazement at what was termed the reversal of this country's national policy since President Grant ended the reconstruction period of the south by an executive order forbidding the holding of both state and federal offices by the same individual.

Senator Walsh (Dem., Mont.) defended the constitutionality of the President's action, naming the draft law during the war as a precedent. Senators who criticized the President held that the draft act could not be regarded as a precedent because in that case congress bestowed particular authority on the President to "increase temporarily the military establishment," and had given no special authority to Mr. Coolidge in the present instance.

Cites State Rights Speech.
Senator Bruce, in protesting what he termed an invasion of state rights, asserted that the governor of Maryland would remove any official of that state who attempted to exercise federal authority under the President's order.

During the course of his protest, Senator Bruce cited the declaration of independence of the President in his Virginia speech of the necessity of the states retaining sovereign powers.

"What a pity that the author of these sentiments should not be more careful to his own convictions," he said. "If I did not believe as well as the President as I do, I would say this procedure was mere pique over the Pennsylvania primary results, where the anti-prohibitionists won such a big victory. Perhaps the President is to run for another term and has in mind being the candidate of the drys."

Senator King (Dem., Utah), asked if the President under this order could utilize state machinery for the enforcement of any statute, including those in connection with the 14th and 15th amendments.

Senator Goff, a notable dry member of the judiciary committee and chairman of the subcommittee on federal courts, continued on page 6, column 1.

GIRL MISSING IN DEATH PLOT; NAB GANGSTER

Mystery Surrounds
Killer's Murder.

And the Killings Go On
The killing of Frank Criminali was the fourth attributed to battles among Chicago gangsters since the special grand jury to investigate crime conditions in general and the murder of Assistant State's Attorney William H. McQuinn in particular, was summoned on April 30.

On May 1 Martin Garrity, 5551 North Francisco avenue, while in a taxi cab, was shot by Doc Whyte, an ex-convict, August Genero, bartender for his brother, John, in whose saloon Jimmy Vinci was killed, was with Whyte.

William Maroney, 2955 West Roosevelt road, was killed in the Burlington cafe, 228 South Halsted street, by Frank Prazzo, a deputy sheriff, on May 9. The cafe is said to have been a clearing house for stolen goods.

Thomas Dine was shot and killed in a street battle with a man believed to be James McDonough, a bootlegger, last Monday.

Anxious relatives waited all yesterday and last night for word of Mildred Kavanaugh, 20 years old, blonde and pretty, who is known to have been the recent companion of Frank Criminali, killer, bootlegger, and procurer, who was found murdered yesterday morning.

Mildred had not been heard from at midnight. She had not been home the night before. A card found on the dead man bore her name and telephone number.

She and her mother, Mrs. J. E. Kane, and her sister Agnes have been heard from Pontiac for several weeks visiting Mrs. Kane's sister, Cecelia Murphy, at 7544 South Shore drive. Mildred's stepfather is a wealthy land owner of Pontiac.

Can't Explain Her Absence.
Mrs. Kane and Agnes Kavanaugh said last night that Mildred had been out of touch during the last few weeks and they were at loss to account for her absence. She told them of knowing a man who owned a Lincoln automobile. That was Criminali.

The girl stayed away from home Wednesday night, Thursday evening at 7 o'clock she telephoned she had been home later. She wasn't. Criminali was killed about 8:30 o'clock that night. Still Mildred remained among the missing.

Criminali's murder was unsolved last night. The police and state's attorney's staff were beginning to fear that Mildred had been with him when he was "taken for a ride" to his murder on a country road near Franklin Park, eighteen miles northwest of the loop.

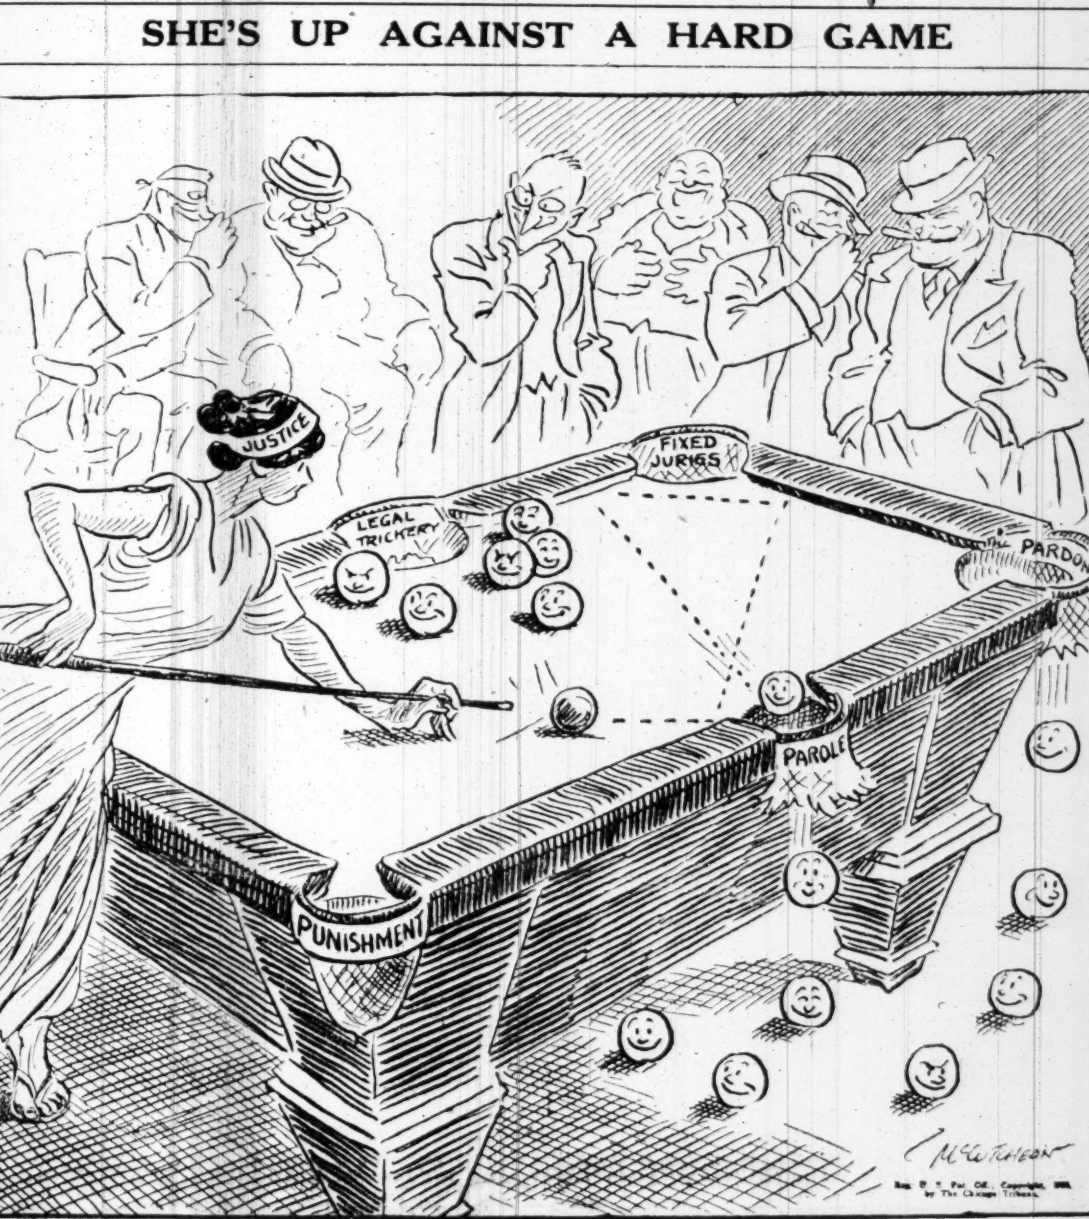

Girl Friend Sees Couple.
At 7 p. m. Thursday Criminali had told Mike Carozza, chief of the Street Sweepers' union, that he had an engagement. Carozza was seized as a witness at 11 o'clock yesterday. Also it was found that Betty Secour, 364 Pine Grove avenue, a pretty auburn haired girl friend of Criminali, had told of seeing him with a beautiful blonde—supposedly Mildred—Tuesday night.

A male friend of the Kavanaugh girls telephoned Miss Murphy's home shortly before 8 o'clock that he had seen Mildred with a man at the Congress hotel just a little while before. Agnes Kavanaugh would not tell the state's attorney last night who this caller was.

Auto Traced to Murder Scene.
The gray Lincoln coach owned by Criminali was seen going west in Irving Park boulevard near the Des Plaines river road, closely followed by another automobile, about 8 p. m. Thursday. Somewhat later it was seen in Franklin Park—a mile south of Irving Park boulevard—near where the body was found yesterday morning. Again, the witnesses said, it was followed closely by another car.

B. Y. Nation, 9540 Belmont avenue, who, with his daughters, saw the two cars in Irving Park boulevard, was unable to say whether a girl accompanied the driver or how many were in either machine. It was the same with the witnesses who saw the cars in Franklin Park.

PASTOR WANTS POLICE GUARD; FEARS SHOOTING

Fearing that members of his flock plan to shoot him, the Rev. E. G. Abner, colored, pastor of the Bethel Baptist church, 1111th place and Loomis street, appealed to the police yesterday for a special squad to guard his services tomorrow morning.

Because he had objected to their moonshine making and other immoral practices, the Rev. Abner told Capt. John Prendergast in Chief Collins' office one facetion of the church is trying to force him to quit.

Judge Hugo Friend issued an order on May 7 forbidding molestation of his services, he said, but the next Sunday, despite the presence of two policemen, four women tore off part of his clothes. The women were given only $5 fines, he complained.

Contrasting labor conditions here with those in England, which gave rise to the general strike, he said that labor in this country is "well treated and appreciated."

Good Word for Government.
"The governmental administration," Mr. Gary said, "the disposition of the congress of the United States, and the attitude of public officials throughout the country generally are much better than they were in the past periods."

"We are at peace with all the nations of the globe, and this is likely to continue."

"The attitude of the present labor leaders, so called, is much better than it has been the larger part of the time during the last twenty-five years. The intention and effort of employers to ward employees are considerate and just. Harmony prevails between these two interests. As a rule wages are fair and reasonable, though in certain lines outrageously high. The law of supply and demand will sooner or later bring these matters to a just and proper regulation."

Gary Defends Labor's Right to Bargaining

LIGHTNING HITS CHURCH, HOMES ON WEST SIDE

Four dwellings and a church on the west side were damaged by lightning during the storm early last night.

One bolt struck the base of the steeple of the Norwood Park Presbyterian church at Nicolet and Nina avenues, and a small fire resulted. It was extinguished by firemen with a loss of about $100.

The chimney of a three story brick rooming house at 3145 West Van Buren street was knocked over and the roof of a cottage at 1247 South Kedvale avenue was struck. Telephone wires leading into a house at Kilpatrick and Patterson avenues were broken by the lightning, and the same thing occurred at a dwelling at Milwaukee and Central avenues.

Today's weather forecast is fair and cooler.

Building Crisis Averted; Sign Up Bricklayers

Tranquil labor conditions in the building industry of Chicago and adjacent territory after June 1 were virtually assured yesterday when Peter S. Shaughnessy, president of the Bricklayers and Masons' union, left a sick bed in his home at 5742 Kenmore avenue and signed a one year agreement with the Associated Builders at the old wage scale of $1.50 an hour.

Shaughnessy's action in taking the initiative in averting a threatened general strike in the building trades will, it was said by builders, be instrumental in rushing contemplated construction estimated at approximately $200,000,000. These projects, have been shelved by architects to await the outcome of conditions on the first of next month.

9,000 Bricklayers Involved.
The agreement signed yesterday covers the wage and working conditions of between 8,000 and 9,000 bricklayers. For years the bricklayers have set the wage rate pace in the building industry.

Builders last night declared that the bricklayers' action will have a tremendous stabilizing effect on the industry in general. They said they expect other trades to follow the precedent set by the bricklayers next week.

Others Holding Back.
To date all trades, with the exception of the lathers and painters, have been marking time before signing new agreements to learn whether the officials of the Building Construction Employers' association would recede from their opposition to the establishment of sympathetic strike clauses in contracts. In the bricklayers' pact no mention is made of that clause, which was designed to give union mechanics the right to strike in the event non-union men were employed on construction.

Those who represented the bricklayers along with Shaughnessy were Peter Murphy, Emil Jahneke, Charles Siemers, John Stretch, Thomas O'Donnell, John Campbell, A. E. Vorkeller, Thomas Healy and Fred Courtney.

Negotiate for Three Months.
Representing the builders were John Flom and H. M. Stanton, president and general manager of the Associated Builders, also John E. Erickson, Joseph Neukirchner and George B. Archer. Negotiations have been in progress for the last three months. During that time Shaughnessy's health failed a trifle and he was ordered to bed.

CARLSTROM AND CROWE DEMAND OPEN SESSIONS

Colvin and Jenkins
Agree to Change.

Forced by the pardon and parole scandal to accept terms for an immediate remedy of conditions on the parole board, Chauncey H. Jenkins and Will Colvin, overlords of the Illinois prison system, early this morning after a conference with Attorney General Carlstrom and State's Attorney Crowe, agreed to permit Col. Henry Harrett Chamberlin to attend all future sessions of the board.

Whether further action will be taken against the two state officials will be decided after they appear, with parole records, before the special grand jury next Wednesday.

Col. Chamberlin will be present at the parole board sessions both as operating director of the Chicago Crime commission and as a special assistant state's attorney, and will be counseled on all paroles and permitted to offer evidence and objections to releasing convicts.

Seek to Protect Chicago.
The purpose, as announced by Prosecutors Carlstrom and Crowe, who forced the new move, is to protect Chicago from the hordes of paroled convicts sent back to prey upon its citizens. Three years ago, when the crime commission issued a report revealing shocking conditions in the freeing of desperate criminals, the parole board passed an order denying the commission access to the records and hearings it had enjoyed in the past. Since then the board has run rampant and paroles have been rendered freely, according to the testimony of Warden John L. Whitman.

As the star witness before the grand jury yesterday, Col. Chamberlin brought the sensational charge that Chicago criminals have been paroled, pardoned, and discharged from Joliet penitentiary at a faster rate than Chicago courts and prosecutors could send them there.

Gives Grand Jury Figures.
Col. Chamberlin had it down in black and white, too, and from his statistics he revealed that in 1925, the year in which the state put up secrecy bars to parole records, there were 397 convicts sentenced to the Joliet penitentiary from Cook county, and 442 felons returned to society by pardon, parole or discharge.

"What remedy would you suggest?" asked a member of the grand jury, which Chief Justice William V. Borah impounded to the quire into the crime causes which culminated in the murder of Prosecutor William H. McQuinn.

"Well," came the crime expert's reply, "it would be much cheaper to do away entirely with prosecutors and courts and prisons. If you are to permit parole by pardon and parole only as scandalously as this one has."

Crowe Increases Convictions.
Perhaps convictions had been lighter, and that was why the prison turned out more convicts than were sent there, it was suggested to Col. Chamberlin.

"On the contrary," Chamberlin said, "convictions under State's Attorney Crowe have increased from 23 per cent of the persons indicted to 45 per cent. They declared that in Joliet penitentiary more than 82 per cent of the Cook county prisoners released were pardoned or paroled, only 18 per cent serving the sentences prescribed by Chicago courts and juries. In Pontiac the record was even more deplorable. Mr. Chamberlin showed, as he stated that 253 prisoners were sent there from Chicago in 1925, and 257 were released by pardon and parole only, discharged not being included.

Violent Crimes—Leniency.
Violent crimes condoned by the parole board were cited by Col. Chamberlin, who read the following comparative figures, showing crimes committed and the number of convicts freed and the number sentenced in 1925:

Charge	Released	Sentenced
Crimes against children	4	17
Rape	21	3
Burglary	6	3
Larceny	96	30
Robbery	103	103

On charges of murder and manslaughter, 59 persons were sent there, and a lesser number, 47, were released, but Col. Chamberlin said that was accounted for by the fact that murder as a trade has increased apace of late years, and that the parole mill couldn't quite keep up with it.

Mentions Specific Paroles.
The colonel also went into specific cases before the jury, no doubt, that Harry Spike O'Donnell parole, that of Harry

HOLD UP WOMAN MOTORIST, THEN TAKE HER HOME

As Mrs. B. Coplasky, 1141 Clare street, stopped her automobile at Boulevard avenue and Irving Park boulevard early this morning, three men from another car behind her jumped on the running board of her machine. They presented guns and robbed her of a $300 ring and $100 in cash.

One of the men took the wheel of her car, and after asking her where she lived, took her home. The robbers' machine, driven by a woman, followed. In front of Mrs. Coplasky's home the bandits let her out, bade her a pleasant good-night, and drove away in her costly machine, their car still following.

Two robbers held up Michael Widen, 3617 West 15th street, and his wife, Rose, as they sat in their automobile in front of 735 North Lawndale avenue. They got a $700 ring, two wrist watches, and $13 in cash.

and Alma Cusick, panders pardoned by Gov. Small, and that of the four bandits who committed the first day-light bank robbery in Chicago, that of the Washington Park National bank, on Jan. 28, 1916.

In the last case, Col. Chamberlain declared, Mrs. Minnie Jacobs Berlin, a social welfare worker, was striving for months to win the four holdup men paroles, but that she had no money to offer.

Finally she gave up, and two weeks later she was astounded to hear that the paroles had been granted. There were reports, Chamberlain said, that a catch of money had been brought to Joliet by the bandits' New York friends.

Col. Chamberlain protested personally, he said, against those paroles.

Grand Jury Views Gangsters.

Seven gangsters, led by two of their lords, Walter Stevens, paroled killer, and Joe Salts, beer dealer, were paroled before the grand jury, they having been taken unconsciously into custody as they left a Municipal court room in which they had appeared on various charges growing out of a raid in which all were caught.

"What is your name?" Stevens was asked when he took the stand.

"I don't know," he replied.

"Are you Walter Stevens?"

"They call me that sometimes," he said.

"Where do you live?"

"I don't know," he said.

And so on. Stevens' air of defiance was more marked, perhaps by his knowledge of previous backing by the parole board and the governor.

SMALL WILL GO BEFORE JOLIET JURY ON TUESDAY

Governor to Appear in Parole Inquiry.

(BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.)

Joliet, Ill., May 21.—(Special.)—Will county's grand jury of retired farmers decided today to find out what Gov. Len Small knows about graft charges to exist in connection with the 1000 sands of pardons and paroles granted during his administration.

The jury this afternoon suddenly voted to request the governor to appear before it. The governor granted the request.

Gov. Small is to appear at 9:30 Tuesday morning. He sent word he will aid the grand jury.

The jury's request, the result of spontaneous action, surprised State's Attorney Hjalmar Rehn and his assistant, Ralph Austin, who have been presenting evidence to the jury for the last ten days.

It is understood the jurors took the action after the governor's name had been mentioned many times in the course of testimony.

Follows Colvin's Testimony.

The request for the governor's story followed the testimony of Chauncey H. Jenkins, head of the state department of public welfare, and as such head of all state prisons, who appeared earlier this week, and of Will Colvin, head of the state board of pardons and paroles who was on the stand today.

Colvin, in fact, was in the midst of his testimony when the jurors decided they wanted to hear from the governor himself. Colvin had been on the stand all morning and it was at the beginning of the afternoon session that the surprise came.

State's Attorney Rehn was stepping out of the jury room to recall Colvin to the stand when several of the jurors signified their wish for something else. He asked them what they desired.

"Well," said one of the jurors, "we want to call the governor."

A babble of voices arose from the jury room at this time and Colvin sat outside impatiently waiting. It was later reported that some of the jurors questioned the wisdom of calling the governor. Then followed twenty minutes of executive session. Then the jurors took a vote.

Vote to Call Governor.

The discussion apparently had satisfied all that the governor should be requested to come, for the vote to call him practically was unanimous, it is said.

When the decision was made, the state's attorney asked the jurors:

"Do you want me to announce your action to the newspapers?"

The jurors answered: "Yes."

Mr. Rehn then stepped out of the jury room and made the announcement. He requested Mr. Jenkins, who

SAVAGE GAINS 2,000 IN CANVASS OF VOTE IN RECENT PRIMARY

Assistant State's Attorney Joseph P. Savage won the Republican nomination for county judge in the April primary by a margin of 22,136 instead of the 20,411 shown on the face of the police returns.

Completion of the canvass of the vote on this office by the election board yesterday showed that Savage had won both in the city and in the country towns over his Demerit rival, Judge Daniel P. Trude. But Judge Trude still insists he will bring his court battle.

There was less change in the figures on the race for sheriff, which also may be the subject of a contest. The unofficial compilation showed that George B. Arnold, Crows-Barrett, had won by 5,483 over Charles J. Peters, Linden-Dempsey. The official tabulation made Arnold's lead 5,935.

Col. Frank L. Smith, Republican nominee for United States senator, passed through Chicago en route from Washington to his home in Dwight, but declined to disclose or comment on the subject of the several conferences he held in Washington with President Coolidge, Senators Demerit and McKinley and except to say that at every opportunity he had stressed the importance of agricultural relief legislation at this session of congress.

He remained here after his testimony on Thursday, to transmit the request to the governor. Mr. Jenkins reached the governor by phone at his home in Kankakee after an hour and then told the state's attorney that Gov. Small had promised to be on hand.

Rehn would not comment on the jurors' decision nor its cause. It was reported, however, that the grand jurors were dissatisfied, particularly with the testimony of Colvin, so wanted to hear directly from Gov. Small.

Colvin is kept busy.

Colvin, who went before the jury in the morning, is understood to have talked incessantly, often making speeches instead of answering the questions asked. At one point, it is believed he strongly defended the Krump law—the recent statute investigating the board of pardons and paroles with greater powers. He sponsored that law.

He was asked, it is understood, what was his connection with the Major Engineering company of Chicago, which has been termed Maj. M. A. Colvin is said to have told the grand jurors that the $25,000 stock he owns in the Major Engineering company was given him as promotional stock for services he rendered in that respect.

Colvin is believed to have told the jurors that he entered into a business deal at the time he (Colvin) supported John G. Oglesby for the governorship against Len Small. Colvin is supposed to have argued that he did not expect Small to retain him as head of the parole board, so he was seeking a business. Maj. Messlein he had known as the head of Hope House in Chicago. It is understood that Colvin said he was treasurer of the Major Engineering company, but resigned as soon as he was retained by Gov. Small, but he held his stock and still has it.

Colvin was asked, it is reported,

VIENNA, May 21.—Wild rioting occurred at Ungvár, the capital of Carpathian Ruthenia, a province of Czechoslovakia, when associates of the communists tried to break up Fascist demonstrations. The police used weapons in trying to stop the fight. Twenty were wounded, several seriously. The Czechoslovakian authorities displayed amazing tolerance toward the Fascists in their attack on the Czech government and President Thomas G. Masaryk.

Denies Board Is Corrupt.

Colvin is reported to have been asked bluntly whether any money ever had been paid for pardons or paroles except through money or political influences. Colvin is believed to have retorted: "That's absolutely untrue."

It is understood that Colvin was asked about the idea among the convicts that a pardon or parole could be obtained by any one only if he had the money, and Colvin said, "There was no foundation for it—absolutely none."

Concerning Whitman's reported testimony that men could not get out of the penitentiary on pardon or parole except through money or political influences, Colvin is believed to have retorted: "That's absolutely untrue."

It is understood that Colvin was asked about the idea among the convicts that a pardon or parole could be obtained by any one only if he had the money, and Colvin said, "There was no foundation for it—absolutely none."

Colvin is reported to have said he voted the parole of Ira D. Perry Jr., the youthful Chicago murderer, on "feeling." Reports had him somewhat worried when he was being quizzed about the Perry parole.

Perry Parole, Colvin Version.

"Yes," he is reported to have said, "I remember the Perry parole. It was voted by the whole board. By myself, along with the other members, except the one who was dissatisfied by Perry's attorney, and the state's attorney of Cook county did not appear, despite the fact that a notice of the hearing had been published in the Chicago or Cook county Law Bulletin."

"As I recollect it, the board voted the pardon because of representations made by Perry's attorney and others appearing to show Perry's confession was obtained by third degree methods."

"And that was why you voted to parole Perry?" he is reported to have been asked.

"Well," he is said to have replied, "I had a feeling that he ought to have it, a feeling that the charges of third degree were true."

"Then you voted that parole on 'feeling,' did you?" is said to have been another query.

"Yes," the reports say he replied.

Colvin is said to have testified at one point that he had not attended recent meetings of the board held at the old penitentiary here. Other witnesses are said to have told the grand jurors that he was afraid to attend the meetings, because of the resentment of many prisoners against him.

Did He Fear for Life?

It was reported that he was asked bluntly whether his reason for not attending was that he feared he would be killed or "some harm" would befall him.

Here again he is said to have gone into a long explanation, generally admitting he had some fears. In substance he is reported to have testified that he had been receiving numerous threats, through the mails, from convicts.

"I quit going up there and also I had some time before that quit dining with the warden," he is reported to

CHICAGOAN SEES SIGHTS OF PARIS; ROBBED OF $1,730

"Friendly Yanks" Hold Him Up in Taxi.

BY JAY ALLEN

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

PARIS, May 21.—Victim of gentry who prey on American tourists, Otto Fraun, 3906 W. Wabash, Chicago, lost $1,730, but figures he was lucky to get off with his life.

[The telephone directory lists an Otto Fraun as living at 5332 West Monroe street.]

Mr. Fraun, who is 48 years of age, and president of the Schwartz Electric Frame company, 2118 Walnut street, Chicago, said a gun was stuck in his ribs during a taxi ride in Paris yesterday with a chance acquaintance, and he was forced to give up his wallet.

With their small daughter, the Frauns left Chicago on May 1. They had only been in Paris a couple of days when they met an amiable American, 55 foreign extraction, who said he once lived in South Chicago, where he had owned a brewery. The encounter was of classic sort, in a Cook Tour's rubberneck wagon.

Suggests Trading France.

The newly found friend loved children and wanted to show some of Paris to the Frauns. He urged them to accompany him to Montmartre and get an expert view of the Paris night life, but Mrs. Fraun said she could not leave their daughter.

The new playmate called with a pal at the hotel yesterday and asked Mr. Fraun to go for a taxi ride, in the course of which he suggested a chance to make a little money by trading in the stock market.

There will be no session of the grand jury tomorrow or Monday. The governor will be the next witness. Then Colvin probably will be recalled.

Attress Denies Story of $20,000 for Love Notes

Miss Edwina Price, an actress playing in a loop theater, last night denied a report published on Thursday to the effect that she had received $20,000 from a wealthy resident of Lake Forest for a packet of love letters. She asserted that a press agent had told her it was a good stunt, but that she hadn't realized until it was in print how serious the matter was.

The affair was reported to the American consulate and police, who mentioned wild parties in the Montmartre, where many Americans are fleeced. The Frauns insist they did not go to the Montmartre.

They plan to continue their trip to Switzerland as soon as money is wired from Chicago, since they are cleared out.

Mr. Fraun changed $1,730 into francs. After returning to the taxi, Mr. Fraun said he was robbed, after which his "friends" disappeared in the crowds.

HOUSE DEFEATS HAUGEN FARM BILL, 167 TO 212

Corn Belt Sees Majority of Both Parties Vote No.

By ARTHUR SEARS HENNING

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.) Washington, D. C., May 21.—[Special.]—The Haugen bill, representing the corn belt's price boosting farm relief plan, was defeated in the house today.

The measure was rejected by a vote of 167 to 212. A majority of both Republicans and Democrats voted against it. The country members from the corn belt of the midwest were virtually solid for it, but, outside of that region there was only a scattering vote for the plan.

Voting for the bill were 98 Republicans, 66 Democrats, and 3 Farmer-Laborites; against it were 121 Republicans, 89 Democrats and 2 Socialists.

Cotton States Balk.

The scheme of the farm organizations to put the bill through by a combination of western Republicans and southern Democrats went to smash when the test came. The cotton co-operators were unable to deliver the cotton states Democrats, who balked at supporting a price stabilization plan based on the protective tariff and feared that the plan would be unworkable in the case of cotton, which is so largely exported.

The Haugen bill proposed to segregate the surplus of a farm product, sell the surplus abroad at a loss, fix the domestic price by adding to the world price the tariff and the freight, and assess the loss on surplus upon the whole product by means of an equalization fee.

How Illinois Voted.

The lineup on the measure of the members from Illinois follows:

FOR: REPUBLICANS—Yates, Rathbone, Reid, Fuller, Johnson, Allen, King, W. L. Hall, Paine, Holaday, Adkins, Wheeler, Irwin, Williams, Denison.

DEMOCRATS—Sabath, Rainey, Arbold.

AGAINST: REPUBLICANS—Madden, M. D. Hall, Spruell, Gorman, Britten, Chidmore.

DEMOCRATS—Doyle, Kunz.

Makes Any Bill Doubtful.

Whether any farm relief legislation outside of the original administration cooperative marketing measure can be passed at this session of congress is now problematical. The cooperative marketing bill has been passed by the house and is pending in the senate, where the committee on agriculture attached to it a rider which is essentially the Haugen bill rejected by the house today.

The senate will take up the farm legislation next week. It is doubtful, however, that a majority can be mustered there for the Haugen plan. The Tinscher bill providing for government loans to finance the regulation of production and marketing, which is favored by the administration, will be offered as an alternative to the Haugen proposition, and if accepted would go back to the house attached to the cooperative marketing bill. There is such opposition to the Tinscher bill in the house, however, that its fate in that body would be uncertain.

Tinscher Bids His Time.

Representative Tinscher [Rep., Kas.] refrained from offering his bill in the house today as a substitute for the Haugen bill, knowing that it would not command a majority at this stage of the proceedings. The Farm Bureau, federation and other farm organizations in the corn belt supporting the Haugen bill are dead against the Tinscher bill and declare that it must be the Haugen price boosting plan or nothing. By avoiding defeat today Tinscher kept his bill on the calendar where it can be taken up under a special rule if the corn belt should abandon its intransigent attitude and decide to take what it can get.

The corn belt members were in a bitter mood. Representative Haugen [Rep., Ia.], chairman of the committee on agriculture, said there was no chance of passing the Tinscher bill and regarded the outlook for adequate farm relief legislation as exceedingly bleak. "The Republican party, by its action today, has failed to profit from an opportunity to do justice to the chief industry in the region of its traditional stronghold," said Representative Dickinson [Rep., Ia.], prime mover of legislation along the lines of the Haugen bill. "Of course, it is not so much the party as the present leadership of the party that is to blame, and sooner or later the agricultural west, which was flouted today, will force a change in that leadership. We shall fight it out in 1928 unless we fail to get relief."

Parliamentary Wrangle.

Efforts overnight to reach a compromise between the Tinscher and Aswell bills failed and when the house met today both these measures were withdrawn and Representative Madden moved to send the Haugen bill back to the committee. For several hours the house wrangled over parliamentary questions. Nearly every member was on the floor, at times the session became extremely turbulent.

On an informal vote the Madden motion prevailed, 171 to 168, but on a roll call the house refused to recommend the bill to the committee. The vote defeating the bill quickly followed.

WHITEMORE IS GUILTY; CREATES SCENE IN COURT

Judge to Fix Penalty; Life Term or Noose.

Baltimore, Md., May 21.—[Special.]—Richard Reese Whitmore, "master bandit," today was found guilty of murder in the first degree by a jury in the Criminal court for the slaying of Robert H. Holtman, an elderly guard in the Maryland penitentiary.

The jury left it to the discretion of the court to decide whether the slayer should be hanged or sentenced to life imprisonment. Judge Eugene O'Dunne announced he would impose sentence next week. The prisoner arose, sneering defiantly. As he passed in front of State's Attorney Herbert R. O'Connor, Whitmore spat squarely in the state's attorney's face. The state's attorney smiled. "That's the highest compliment I've had paid me in a long, long time," he observed.

Edgar Allan Poe, defense attorney, in his plea to the jury declared that the real issue in the case was whether a man handicapped by such a record as Whitmore's could secure a fair trial.

"He is only a pawn," Poe declared. "The state of Maryland is asking that this man be hanged for the moral effect it will have on the community."

Poe argued that Whitmore was justified in striking down Holtman in self-defense—not, he explained, that he approved of a prisoner attacking a guard but because a guard has no right to bulldoze a prisoner. And he pointed out that Whitmore's story was confirmed in important details by testimony of witnesses for the state.

O'Connor in summing up for the state recited Whitmore's long criminal record, fifteen years of alternate crime and imprisonment. He painted the slayer as a desperate foe of society and demanded the extreme penalty for murder as a protection to the public.

Second Murder Trial.

This is the second time within a month Whitmore has faced a jury on murder charges. On April 19 he was tried in Buffalo, N. Y., for the murder of two bank messengers in the course of a $90,000 armored car hold-up. The jury disagreed and Whitmore was turned over to the Maryland authorities.

Whitmore began his career of crime as a small boy by stealing silverware from a Baltimore church where he attended Sunday school. His criminal activities were brought to an abrupt end on March 19, when he was arrested in New York City as the leader of the so-called "Candy Kid" bandit gang, whose plunder has been estimated at $1,000,000. He is still under indictment in New York for six of the big jewel robberies. According to police, his depredations until his capture, attired in evening dress, at a night club, include a long series of bank robberies, bank lootings, and gem robberies.

LONDON OLD BOYS MEET.

The London Old Boys club, an organization of former residents of London, Ont. now living in Chicago, which was formed in 1898, met last night at the Great Northern hotel to discuss plans for their annual pilgrimage to the Canadian city to attend the centennial of the landing of its first settler.

FLO LEEDS TURNS BACK ON NATIVE LAND AND BLISS OF STILLMANS

New York, May 21.—[Special.]—Friends of Flo Leeds are convinced that when the steamship Paris passes quarantine tomorrow the show girl in the Stillman divorce case will turn her back on her native land. Flo has closed her apartment, where she has lived for almost three years.

It was reported that another happy ending to the reconciliation of James and Flo Leeds is about to be realized; that Flo Leeds, by a private arrangement and for a substantial settlement, will leave America for a permanent home abroad. It also was reported tonight.

That Jay Ward Leeds, young son of James Stillman and Flo Leeds, was sent by his mother to Paris a month ago in charge of his French governess. That the automobile purchased by the ex-show girl two weeks ago has been crated and will be part of her expressage on board the Paris.

That all of Miss Leeds' furniture has been packed and is ready for shipment abroad.

For the last month Broadway has buzzed that Flo Leeds was going to Paris, and that she would be married to an American business man there on June 17. Miss Leeds practically admitted this, but refused to name the man.

STARTS 3 YEAR WORLD CRUISE IN CHINESE JUNK

Stratford, Conn., May 21.—(AP)—The Chinese junk Amoy, owned by Leroy Lewis, started the Houstonian river today on the first leg of what is planned to be a world cruise lasting about three years. The Amoy was the first craft of its kind to cross the Pacific from China and come through the Panama canal. It crossed the Pacific in eighty-seven days.

On board the Amoy are Capt. Alfred Lewis, formerly of St. Francisco, and Mrs. Lewis, together with Benjamin Whiting, native of the Panama Canal zone, who came to Stratford on the Amoy.

Before starting across the Atlantic it is planned to visit the Gulf of Mexico and sail as far up the Mississippi river as it is possible to go with a boat of this type.

The Amoy is 65 feet in length, has a 19½ foot beam, and draws but four feet of water. It is fashioned throughout of camphor wood logs, fastened together with bamboo pins.

COOLIDGE FAVORS "USE MORE WINE" DELAYING NAVY BOARD TO BOOST DISARM PARLEY GERMANY'S SALES

Washington, D. C., May 21.—[Special.]—President Coolidge is of the opinion, it was stated in his behalf at the White House today, that it is not wise at the present time to discuss the possibility of another naval limitation conference to which the United States, Great Britain and Japan alone might be parties, if France and Italy maintain their position that it is not possible to disassociate the question of land and naval armament from the disarmament conference. The president in a reply to a published report from Geneva indicating that Japanese delegates there had made known their view in favor of such a separate conference, the President made it known that the attitude of this government now is to continue its active support of the disarmament gathering in session at Geneva and that it has confidence that meeting will be able to reach some practical results.

The President believes, it was explained, that any commitment at this time to a Washington conference might impair the success of the present conference. If this government should endorse the holding of another naval conference, he was said to hold, the powers represented at Geneva might form the opinion that it was advisable to discontinue their present discussions.

JOYCE'S BATHTUB SHINES AGAIN IN TRIAL SPOTLIGHT

Four Tell of Wine Dip at Carroll's Party.

New York, May 21.—[Special.]—Four guests, three of them uninvited, held on the morning of Washington's birthday, testified in federal court today at Carroll's trial for perjury that they saw Joyce Hawley, a show girl, get into a tub filled with champagne without any clothes on and that many of the other 500 guests present drank of the wine in which Miss Hawley splashed in the nude.

EARL CARROLL.

Carroll previously had told the grand jury no liquor was served and that no one was in the tub, voluntarily or otherwise, at any time during the party. For these statements he was charged with perjury.

Went to Cover Story.

Today's witnesses were Philip A. Payne, managing editor; Arthur P. Irwin, assistant night city editor; Paul Lubben, a reporter, and Robert Coleman, dramatic critic, all of the Mirror.

Asked whether he went to the party as a guest or as a reporter, Payne replied he went "everywhere as a reporter."

"You're a dangerous man to invite," Carroll's counsel queried.

"Most of my hosts have nothing to fear," the witness said.

Under cross-examination, Payne admitted that he was interested in the "Bunk of 1926," a revue playing at the same time as Carroll's show.

"You are interested in glorifying the female form?" he was asked.

"I'm not an expert on that," Mr. Carroll is.

Both Irwin and Lubben said they knew the taste of champagne, although neither one of them was of age at the time prohibition came into effect.

"Are you a gentleman?"

By all manner of implication of the defense, during Irwin's cross-examination, sought to convince the jury that any one who would tell that celebrated prohibitionist, Uncle Sam, about drinking when he had accepted the drinks from a host was no gentleman.

"And you still do look upon yourself as a gentleman?" asked Mr. Smyth.

"I do, and I'm telling the truth," said the witness.

Miss Hawley's little solo-splashing act took place about 4:30 a. m., the witness said.

As he described it, the bathtub, which up to that time had been used for beverage purposes only, was moved from one side of the stage to its center.

Takes Off Chemise.

Miss Hawley, the witness said, came out of the wings, Mr. Carroll holding a cloak in front of her while she tossed her chemise aside and stepped into the tub in what Broadway calls the altogether. Then the cloak was removed and what Irwin saw above the rim of the tub was that part of Miss Hawley's anatomy "from a little below her shoulders up."

Carroll, the witness recalled, then made an announcement:

"The line forms on the right—come on, gentlemen, or something like that."

The gentlemen came on, he said, fifteen or twenty trooping on the stage and forming a line, each dipping a glass in the tub as the line passed.

Williams, former commander of the San Diego marine base, must pay for the privilege of playing host at a "cocktail" party for Brig. Gen. Snedley Butler, former director of public safety at Philadelphia.

COL. A. S. WILLIAMS.

Secretary of the Navy Wilbur today announced that the marine officer had been found guilty of charges of intoxication preferred by Gen. Butler following a "house warming party" at the Coronado hotel and the colonel's Coronado home and that he had been sentenced to be dropped four numbers on the promotion list of the marine corps.

This means that the colonel's promotion to brigadier general will be automatically delayed from six months to a year. Col. Williams is eighteenth on the list of colonels. This will make him number twenty-two.

TRACTION GROUP READY TO CALL LINES' OFFICIALS

After a final meeting on Monday to agree upon several minor questions, the council committee on local transportation will be ready to negotiate with surface line officials on the terms of Chicago's proposed new traction ordinance.

The committee finished its second reading of the ordinance yesterday.

By the end of next week Chairman Joseph McDonough said the street car heads will be asked to come in and negotiate.

Meanwhile Corporation Counsel Busch was directed to prepare a summary of an ordinance for the elevated lines, to be sent to officials of that company, who will be invited to appear at the same time.

Maj. R. P. Kelker, engineer for the committee, recommended that the right of way for double track surface lines should be eighteen instead of sixteen feet in width, and that the height of the rails be reduced from nine to seven inches. The committee concurred.

By all manner of implication of the defense, during Irwin's cross-examination, sought to convince the jury that any one who would tell that celebrated prohibitionist, Uncle Sam, about drinking when he had accepted the drinks from a host was no gentleman.

"And you still do look upon yourself as a gentleman?" asked Mr. Smyth.

"I do, and I'm telling the truth," said the witness.

Miss Hawley's little solo-splashing act took place about 4:30 a. m., the witness said.

As he described it, the bathtub, which up to that time had been used for beverage purposes only, was moved from one side of the stage to its center.

Takes Off Chemise.

Miss Hawley, the witness said, came out of the wings, Mr. Carroll holding a cloak in front of her while she tossed her chemise aside and stepped into the tub in what Broadway calls the altogether. Then the cloak was removed and what Irwin saw above the rim of the tub was that part of Miss Hawley's anatomy "from a little below her shoulders up."

Carroll, the witness recalled, then made an announcement:

"The line forms on the right—come on, gentlemen, or something like that."

The gentlemen came on, he said, fifteen or twenty trooping on the stage and forming a line, each dipping a glass in the tub as the line passed.

MISSING BLONDE SOUGHT AS CLEW TO NEW MURDER

Reported with Crimaldi as He Faced Death.

while he was out of his automobile and probably while he was standing beside it. The detectives think he was blindfolded at the time he was shot—four times in the back of the head and once in the hip. The body remained where it had fallen and the machine stayed where it had stopped, two blocks east of the Mannheim road in Grand avenue. No explanation of the blind folding was forthcoming.

A ditch full of water was beside the road and 100 feet away was a culvert where the body could have been conveniently hidden had the killers so desired. Apparently they didn't.

Was it because they had to take the girl away? The police were asking that and were unable to get an answer.

Blindfold Puzzles Police.

Had he been lured to some place to which he must approach blindfolded? If Mildred were with him, was she also blindfolded? Had they (for he alone) been told they must not be able to recognize the place to which they were going? Did another man take the wheel and then drive to the place of execution where Crimaldi stepped from the car without knowing he was going to his death?

Those questions bothered the detectives last night as well as the whereabouts of Mildred—if she is alive. They were all unanswered while Mildred's mother, aunt and sister kept an all night vigil for her.

What the police did find out came from two sources, from Mike Carozza, who was arrested but released last night, and from the police record of Crimaldi, both here and in Detroit.

Slain Man Linked with Carozza.

Carozza's name and telephone number were found on a slip of paper in the dead man's clothing. Within an hour Chief of Detectives William Schoemaker, Lieut. Charles Egan and Sgt. Thomas Burke were driving past La Salle and Washington streets.

They saw Carozza and jumped out to question him. Carozza's hand went to his hip pocket where a loaded revolver was found.

Then the police went to Carozza's room in the Drake hotel. There they found a sawed off shotgun, double barreled. Pictures of Carozza and Crimaldi, taken together in Hot Springs last month, were also in the room.

Carozza said Crimaldi was a bootlegger, living at the Webster hotel under the name of Frank Stone. Thither went the detectives, but Crimaldi's room had been cleaned out. Only his thirty suits of clothing and six overcoats remained.

Arrested Here Week Ago.

Lieut. Edward Birmingham remembered having arrested Crimaldi a week ago, having trailed the Lincoln automobile from the Myland hotel on the south side to the Webster hotel on the north side. At that time Crimaldi admitted being a bootlegger, saying he had brought in several cargoes of whiskey from Detroit and that he had just banked $7,000. He had $800 in his pockets when arrested. He said he was afraid to leave Chicago. His record in Detroit told why.

He had been indicted for the murder there of Howard McDonald, who was shot while in the room of Irene Baker, mistress of a disorderly house, and sweetheart of Crimaldi. The killer had knocked at the door and shot McDonald when he opened it.

The Baker woman was arrested and finally admitted that Crimaldi had telephoned her soon after the shooting, saying he was in trouble and was about May 1. Carozza said, but the police were not so sure he wasn't here leaving the city. He fled to Toledo and Cleveland, and wrote to her, asking information on the McDonald murder, she said. He was finally arrested and held in the county jail. The woman was held, too, as a material witness against him. They foiled justice by being surreptitiously married while in jail, and therefore she was unable to testify against him.

That gave Crimaldi freedom, but in a few months he was arrested for the murder of William H. Long, a saloon keeper at 1264 Fort street, Detroit. The presumption against Crimaldi was great, but the evidence was lacking, so again he was liberated.

His wife gave him money and he went to Hot Springs, Ark., where he met Carozza. He came to Chicago on the date of the murders of Assistant State Attorney William H. McSwiggin, James J. Doherty and Thomas Duffy in Cicero, April 27.

Crimaldi's residence at the Webster hotel was thought to have offset any possibility that he was affiliated with the Capone gang of Cicero. His bootleg connections were believed to have been with the gang once headed by Ben O'Hanlon and now led by "Schmer" Drucci and "Hymie" Weiss, who have not altogether been absolved of suspicion in the McSwiggin murder. They, however, are known to be opposed to Italians as a rule.

The widow is expected in Chicago this morning and may be able to give a clew. Detroit police were raiding her resort yesterday when she received notice of her husband's death. She at once attributed it to his Detroit murders, but Chicago police are not yet ready to believe that.

They know that Crimaldi had "Sam" at the College Inn and "Her man" at the Friar's Inn, making dates for him with girls. They suspect he was hidden to some roadhouse Thursday night to meet another.

Where Mildred Kavanaugh figured in the murder is what is now regarded as the key to the mystery.

CANADIANS RAP FORD SAILINGS THROUGH CANALS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Ottawa, Ont., May 21.—Impending proposals for the St. Lawrence waterways development today were cited by Charles Dunning, minister of railways, as reasons for not discriminating against German and Scandinavian boats in Great Lakes canal charges.

He was addressing a deputation of Great Lakes ship owners, who sought exclusion of foreign vessels other than American. It was said United States ship owners would join in the move.

A protest was made against Henry Ford's sailing through the canal system this summer 169 boats purchased from the United States shipping board. Alleged violation of Canadian coastal laws by American ship owners, in breaking and reloading Canadian grain cargoes at Buffalo, also drew protests.

I KNOW that men would rather wear old clothes than mortgage their incomes with wage assignments just to get credit to buy new clothes—any man with a speck of pride would. I don't expect such things—a friendly talk fixes things with me. Come in and let's have one.

FRANK L. WRIGHT DISMISSES HIS DIVORCE ACTION

Wife Plans Her Return to Taliessen.

BY GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Madison, Wis., May 21.—(Special.)—Frank L. Wright, still the legal wife of Frank Lloyd Wright, who this morning withdrew his divorce bill in Judge A. C. Hoppmann's court rather than let the case go to its sensational trial, returned to Chicago late today, seeking a cheerless victory in the legal battle. Mrs. Wright plans soon to return to Taliessen, the Spring Green (Wis.) home she once shared with her husband.

This contemplated reconciliation gesture has, at least, two possible meanings, both of them pragmatic rather than emotional.

May Mean Illinois Suit.

Mrs. Wright may be going back to Taliessen to offer to return to Wright's home as his legal wife, content that he will elect not to receive her and that she will, thereupon, have specific grounds for filing suit for separate maintenance within a few days in Illinois. Wisconsin statutes have no provision for precisely such a bill.

Or she may be going back, and her counsel stress this point, willing to live under the same roof with her husband, in order that Mr. Wright, the husband, may have an opportunity to rehabilitate himself in society as Mr. Wright, the architect.

Spicy Evidence Indicated.

In either case the financial status of Mrs. Wright will be on the mend. For, if she goes up to Spring Green and turns right around and returns to Chicago against Attorney Arthur Cloud and Frederick Fike, her counsel, will doubtless file their bill, relying on this attempted homecoming as an important point. Such a case would be filed, it is predicted, with the abundantly frank details of Wright's alleged attachment for Olga Milanoft, the beautiful Montenegrin girl.

And if she goes to Spring Green, is permitted to remain, and Frank Lloyd Wright, in an apparent calm, free from litigation, is able to continue his internationally famous work as an architect, his bank roll will increase.

The increase in his bank roll is proportionate to the increase in money settlement which he will give her in exchange for a quiet divorce.

As it is now, Mrs. Wright won't give up the title of wife, unless she can be assured of sufficient money compensation to care for her, and she is ill. Wright can't, his banker says, give her more than a flat sum of $1,000 and a guaranteed sum of $125 a month for one year, with the promise of an increase when he "can get back to work, undisturbed."

Rejects Husband's Offer.

After a discussion with her attorneys lasting all of the evening and most of the night Mrs. Wright this morning instructed her counsel to go to court with a final and absolute rejection of this proposal. Then Levi H. Baneroff, counsel for Wright, told the court that he withdrew his client's bill for divorce, which charged desertion.

The withdrawal of the husband's bill left nothing on file, for Mrs. Wright's answer was not a counter-suit, but merely a defense to the charge of desertion, and introduced charges of cruelty and adultery on the part of her husband only as part of her defense.

Mrs. Wright, informed at her hotel that she had won a legal victory, made up her mind to go to Taliessen.

Only Place to Go Is Home.

"I am still Mr. Wright's wife," she said. "For eight years I lived an honorable life in a dishonorable method (referring to the time she lived with Wright prior to his marriage to her). I am alone, without money. There is only one place I can go, and that place is, with a pause, 'that place is home. Put it in quotation marks.'"

Wright, commenting only that "Nobody knows what would happen should she return," at the adjournment of court for Spring Green.

UNION LEAGUE CLUB'S NEW BUILDING FORMALLY DEDICATED

Buckingham at the speakers' table at the dedication banquet.

MEMBERS JAM UNION LEAGUE AT FORMAL OPENING

Overflow Banquet Is Necessary.

The new home of the Union League club of Chicago, at 69 West Jackson boulevard, was formally opened last night, resulting in a turnout of members which made necessary the organization of an overflow banquet. Several hundred members held the impromptu session after the spacious dining room in the new structure had been filled to capacity by the earlier arrivals at the big house warming.

Last night's dinner was part of the first function of the club's two-day dedication program, which will include a reception from 2 to 4 o'clock this afternoon, at which the wives and daughters of members will assist, and an Elizabethan dinner tonight, at which members and their guests will be dressed in the costumes of the days of Queen Elizabeth.

New Officers Inducted.

A feature of the program last night was the induction of the new officers, headed by Harry Eugene Kelly, the president, and the formal turning over of the club to the members by the retiring president, William J. Jackson.

Others at the speakers' table, in addition to Mr. Kelly and Mr. Jackson, were George T. Buckingham, the Rev. John Timothy Stone, Wyllys W. Baird, former Judge Charles S. Cutting, George B. McKibbin, Lloyd Heth, B. J. Brumley, C. W. Seabury, Gates W. McGarragh, president of the Union League club of New York; C. A. McCauley, president of the Union League club of Detroit; and J. M. Raymond, president of the Union League club of Aurora.

Special Dedication Volume.

Each of the members was presented with a special dedication volume, conceived by Edward M. Holloway, which included special articles bearing on the club's history written by well known figures in the organization. In connection with this presentation a giant book, a replica of the souvenir volume, formed the stage setting for tableaux. The new clubhouse is 22 stories high and was erected at a cost of $4,000,000. With the exception of two stories on the ground floor, the entire building is being used by the club itself. In the attic is the daylight laundry and on the twenty-first floor is a 100,000 gallon swimming tank.

Telegraph Connects Departments.

A telegraph system connects every department of the club. Among the many modern features of the mechanical equipment of the club are kitchens said to be the most unusual and fully furnished in the country.

The club will be functioning in all departments beginning Monday. Partial service has been maintained since May 1, when the club vacated its temporary quarters.

The packers demand reparation on shipments from points east to Denver and the Rocky mountain region. The railroads are expected to put on their first witness before the commission today.

CATTLE TESTING SETS A RECORD, STANNARD SAYS

S. J. Stannard, director of the state department of agriculture at Springfield, sent out a statement yesterday reviewing the cattle tuberculosis eradication program, which was started in Illinois seven years ago. Last year, the statement says, 67 of the 102 counties in the state took part in the program under the county area plan which is being carried out between the state and federal governments.

Mr. Stannard says that an unprecedented number of cattle has been tested within the last few months as a result of the Chicago pure milk ordinance requiring the tuberculin testing of cows which provide milk to this city.

"During January, February, and March 49,840 cattle were tested in eleven counties, and 20,817 reactors were removed," the statement says.

"A total indemnity obligation of $1,040,850 was incurred."

The testing was stopped on April 1, but Mr. Stannard says that release to Illinois of a $50,000 additional federal allotment and a $150,000 emergency allotment provided by congress has made possible resumption of the work.

Cafe Manager Cleared

of Mrs. Harco's Charge

Benjamin Franklin, manager of the Moulton House café at 416 South Washington street, was dismissed in the Chicago avenue court yesterday on a charge of assault and battery brought by Mrs. Clara Harco, 522 Addison street. Mrs. Harco, who was tried several months ago for the murder of her mother, Mrs. Lillian Holt, in Lake county, asserted that Franklin struck her when she interferred as he was beating an entertainer, Yvette Troy. Dan Bianco, in charge of entertainment at the café, testified that the Troy girl was in his room at a hotel when the beating was alleged to have occurred on the dance floor.

SCOTT ORDERED BACK TO CHICAGO TO FACE GIBBET

CRIMINAL COURT.
Frank Cahill, burglary, sentenced to serve one year in the House of Correction by Judge Harry B. Miller.
Louis Boyce, burglary, sentenced to the penitentiary for one to twenty years by Judge William N. Gemmill.
Frank Nazzarino, burglary, sentenced to the penitentiary for five to twenty years, by Judge Marcus Kavanagh.

Russell Scott, whose primrose path took him from a millionaire promoter to a thief and a murderer, was yesterday ordered by Attorney General Carlstrom into the custody of Sheriff Peter M. Hoffman, who will then apply to the courts to have a new date set for hanging Scott.

Before the hanging is held, it was believed at the state's attorney's office, a jury will have passed on the sanity of the slayer of Joseph Maurer, drug clerk, just as a jury found him insane nine months ago.

The jury trial, it is said, must be sought by Scott's attorney, who is William Scott Stewart.

Attorney General Carlstrom, after examining the alienists' report holding Scott to be sane, notified Chauncey Jenkins, director of the department of public welfare, that the legal process by which he should proceed was to direct Frank A. Stubbins, warden at the Chester asylum, where Scott is confined, to deliver his prisoner to Sheriff Hoffman.

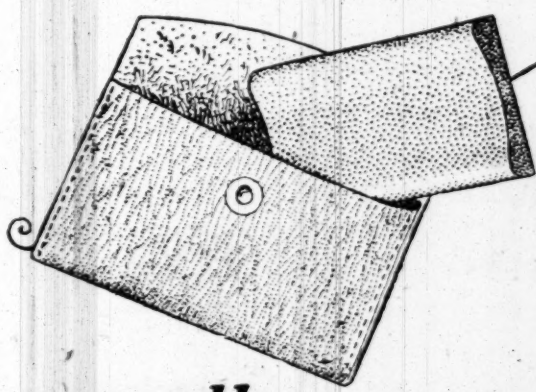

First Assistant State's Attorney George E. Gorman, assigned by State's Attorney Crowe to handle the case, declared that as soon as Scott was in the custody of the sheriff he probably would move before Acting Chief Justice William V. Brothers of the Criminal court to set a date for the execution.

SENATE CRITICS RAP COOLIDGE FOR DRY ORDER

Prohibitionists and Wets
Call It Illegal.

author of the Goff bill to tighten the prohibition laws, questioned the authority for the executive order, in an interview after the session of the senate ended.

"I cannot see now what class of state officers could serve the federal government in this matter," he said. "It would raise the old question of serving two masters because of the conflicting duties. It has long been an accepted theory of law that a man cannot serve in two offices at the same time. Under the old general English law, I would feel that acceptance of the federal post by any state officer would be impliedly a resignation of his state office. I do not see how the order can be legally carried out."

In his legal practice, Senator Goff said he has dealt with this subject of the incompatibility of state and federal service, and his position has been sustained by the courts.

State's Sovereignty.
Senator King, a dry and also a member of the judiciary committee, said: "No self-respecting governor of a state and no self-respecting state official would permit officers under his authority to become officers of the federal government."

"State officers owe allegiance to the state, their obligations are to the state and their acts must be performed under the laws of the state. I would regard it as a most dangerous precedent to mingle federal and state authority. It would tend to break down the sovereignty and dignity of any state to permit its officers to become employees of the federal government, and the executive order, in my opinion, is simply a naked and unconstitutional act."

Would Disqualify Officials.
Senator Edge, Republican, of New Jersey, a leading wet, said: "I feel that it is entirely illegal. It seems amazing to me that the federal government could pay a salary, no matter how small, to a state official, as this order contemplates. I believe any state official who accepted the payment or position could be removed from office."

The attitude of the south in reference to prohibition and the methods advocated for compulsory enforcement.

WETS BRING STATE G. O. P. CONVENTION TO NEW YORK CITY

New York, May 21.—[Special.]—The wet wing of the Republican state committee won a victory today when it was decided to hold the state convention here in Madison Square Garden on Sept. 27. The dries on the committee fought for an upstate convention city.

The selecting of Al Smith's home city as the convention town in which the G. O. P. will pick its candidate for governor was taken to mean that the committee is heeding the advice of the wet wing. The Republicans, from the looks of things, intend to do some talking about—or rather against it—prohibition this fall.

Another signal action by the committee was the granting to women members of the party equal representation with men on the state committee. The Democrats took this action two years ago with much success.

Before the committee went into their executive meeting the name of Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University and ardent wet enthusiast, was heard in discussions of gubernatorial possibilities. His name predominated over all others.

In communities opposed is exactly what the attitude of the people of the north was during the reconstruction period toward the people of the south. The president in this instance is merely invoking the policy of the north against the south with reference to slavery.

State's Sovereignty.
Senator King, a dry and also a member of the judiciary committee, said: "No self-respecting governor of a state and no self-respecting state official would permit officers under his authority to become officers of the federal government."

"State officers owe allegiance to the state, their obligations are to the state and their acts must be performed under the laws of the state. I would regard it as a most dangerous precedent to mingle federal and state authority. It would tend to break down the sovereignty and dignity of any state to permit its officers to become employees of the federal government, and the executive order, in my opinion, is simply a naked and unconstitutional act."

The attitude of the south in reference to prohibition and the methods advocated for compulsory enforcement.

WAR VETS WANT TO KNOW IF TIM RUNS THE POLICE

Inquiries On Today Into Officer's Transfer.

May an ex-convict with money and a pull—Big Tim Murphy, be explicit—hand out orders in the Chicago police department?
To find an answer to that question, asked by an angry public yesterday, will be the aim of inquiries by Mayor Dever and ex-service societies today. They will investigate a charge that Murphy carried out a vow to get Policeman John J. Mahoney, who arrested Murphy's wife for passing a traffic signal on May 14, five days later was sent from a loop corner where he had served for years, to an outlying crossing. He declared that Big Tim got him.

Dever to Talk to Collins.
Mayor Dever said that he would confer with Chief Collins, who is expected back from Benton Harbor, Mich., today or tomorrow.

Anxious for quicker action, however, officers of the Civil Legion, after a conference last night, announced a meeting at noon today, when they expect to have both Mahoney and Capt. Patrick

GAS LULLS GIRL'S SLAYER TO DEATH IN NEVADA PRISON

Carson City, Nev., May 21.—(AP)—Nevada took the life of a murderer today by lethal gas—this commonwealth's form of capital punishment.

Stanko Jukich, 28, copper miner of Ruth, Nev., was the man who paid the extreme price. The law demanded his death for the slaying last year of Jennie Madak, his 16-year-old sweetheart.

The spark of life vanished quickly from the body of the condemned man. Four nods of the head, stretched over a period of two and one-half minutes, told a graphic story of the effectiveness of the hydrocyanic acid sprayed into the concrete death vault in which Jukich sat strapped to a chair.

No torture of the body marked his passing, in the opinion of spectators. If there was any pain, Jukich did not betray it. His face remained calm, a faint smile playing around his lips. It seemed as though he was simply lulled into a deep and restful sleep.

Despite precautions taken to hermetically seal the execution chamber, a few spectators experienced a feeling of nausea and smarting of the eyes.

It is a good thing for people to have a definite, tangible goal toward which to work, a goal which will concentrate the loose ends of effort and which, attained, will be a vantage point on which to stand to take a breathing spell, to look about, to admire, and to be admired—if the work has been well done.

The business world has its stock takings, its audits, and its stockholders' meetings. The business world and the associational world have their conventions. Students have their examinations and their commencements. They all have their goals.

Chicago is to have its goal—its stock taking, its audits, and its stockholders' meetings. The business world and the associational world have their conventions. Students have their examinations and their commencements. They all have their goals.

It is a long road from 1833 to 1933.

The year 1833 not only saw the formal organization of Chicago but it saw also the first brick building outside the walls of Fort Dearborn about the scattered log and frame houses in which the little settlement of half a thousand souls lived among the glades, the prairies, and the sand flats flanking the sluggish river. On Aug. 10, 1833, the trustees of the new village were elected. The village was done at the house of Mark Beaubien, 23, 25, 27, and 29 ran for office. Thomas J. Y. Owen, later chosen president of the body; George W. Dole, Moderator B. Beaubien, John Miller, and E. K. Kimberly were the successful candidates.

Twenty-eight electors in 1833. Ninety years later William E. Dever was to be chosen mayor of Chicago by a vote of 390,413 to Arthur C. Lucret's 285,094 and William A. Cunniff's 41,186.

A long way also from seven years before the opening of the World's Columbian exposition in 1893 to today. The vote in the majority election of 1893 was: Carter H. Harrison Sr., 43,352; Sidney Smith, 42,977; William H. Bush, 221.

The population preparing to receive the world in 1933 is four times that that got ready for the great fair of three decades ago.

The time is ripe for the goal to be set. A civic improvement here, another there. Scattered throughout the city and the Chicago region. Some completed, some under way, some just projected. New streets and boulevards, new parks, new buildings, new schools. Chicago gives itself seven years to complete these enterprises and get ready for company.

Not only will Chicago get ready but the whole middle west will begin to prepare. For a fair, though held in Chicago and celebrating a Chicago anniversary, must represent not Chicago only but the great central section of the country whose growth and prosperity have made Chicago and have in turn been made by Chicago. Let the nation and the world, coming to the exposition on the lake front seven years from now, see the goal the midwest has attained.

INADEQUATE ROADS.

The opening of the racing season at Aurora calls attention again to the need of wider roads in the Chicago region. The present 18 foot roads are inadequate to handle the ordinary week-day traffic. As soon as the slightest additional pressure is put upon the highways, on Sundays and holidays, the congestion becomes intolerable. Traffic is slowed to the pace of the slowest vehicles and it is held up at every crossing. When still heavier demands are placed upon the roads, as, for instance, by the races, the situation becomes even worse. The roads must be widened if Chicago and the rest of the state are to get the full enjoyment of them.

DRIVERS' LICENSES.

A woman motorist, driving by herself for the first time, ran down and killed a woman pedestrian and injured five other people. Following her arrest, the woman driver attempted three times to take her own life.

If all motorists possessed the same quality of remorse that this woman driver exhibited there would be fewer motor accidents in Chicago. The average motorist, to judge by the examples seen daily on the streets and boulevards, is thoroughly callous to the rights and safety of pedestrians and other motorists. He exhibits no symptom indicating that he would be more than temporarily sorry were he to injure or kill some one. He figures, probably, that it would always be the other fellow's fault.

Licenses for drivers must come. A license law would have prevented an accident such as that of the woman motorist. The law would not have permitted her to drive alone until examination had proved her competent. An automobile death toll of 238 in Cook county at this writing calls for a law which will make driving a motor vehicle a right to be acquired through proof of competency instead of a natural privilege.

Twenty years ago Chicago had an ordinance requiring drivers to be examined and licensed. The law was passed in 1905, but remained in force only a short time.

The incongruity is, of course, that Chicago should have passed a driver's license law in 1905.

when automobiles were a rarity, the total annual production of United States and Canada being only 25,000, while today, with 18,000,000 motor vehicles in this country, an annual output of 4,000,000, and a million automobiles in Illinois alone, Illinois has no such law.

COL. MITCHELL'S VICTORY.

The President has signed the Bingham bill, which intrusts to the department of commerce the task of fostering civilian aviation. The appointment of an assistant secretary of commerce for aviation is authorized. He will work in cooperation with aviation officials of the war and navy departments. The department of commerce will establish and maintain airways with adequate signal lights and emergency fields, and provide air maps and other services. The department is to cooperate with the department of agriculture in obtaining and distributing information regarding flying conditions. The department is also to inspect flying equipment and license pilots. In brief, the department of commerce is to perform services for air navigation similar to those it has long maintained for navigation at sea.

The Bingham bill follows closely the recommendations of the Morrow commission, which investigated the aircraft situation of the country. The Morrow commission was appointed because of Col. William Mitchell's sensational accusations. Col. Mitchell insisted that stupidity or incompetence in the army and navy were endangering the safety of the country. Both the army and navy, he maintained, were neglecting the air service. The Morrow commission found that Col. Mitchell had greatly overstated the case. The commission decided against the colonel's proposal for a unified air service and advised, instead, close cooperation between the army, navy, and civilian service. That recommendation has now been realized in part, at least, in the Bingham bill.

Col. Mitchell paid the price of his vehemence when a court martial found against him and recommended his suspension from the service. Shortly afterward he resigned. There may be a grim satisfaction for him in the passage of the Bingham bill. It is likely that the bill could not have received attention if it had not been for the colonel's aggressiveness. The bill is a monument to his enthusiasm and a justification of his bad manners.

THE WORLD AT OUR DOOR.

Director Davies of the Field museum reports that in 1924 expeditions sent out by the museum were collecting specimens in four continents. Gifts of more than $1,000,000 were presented to the museum. Its program of lectures and other entertainments was expanded. The attendance broke all records.

During the year the Simpson-Roosevelt expedition was at work in central Asia. Other scientific groups were operating in Mesopotamia, Peru, Chile, Madagascar, British Guiana, Argentina, Alberta, Africa, British Columbia, Saskatchewan, Alberta, Iowa, Kansas, Michigan, and Georgia.

The museum is one of the city's first assets. It has brought to Chicago specimens of plant and animal life from every continent and sea and archipelago. It has a notable anthropological collection. In the museum are gathered specimens of the clothing, the ornaments, the weapons, the tools, and the arts of all the races in the world. Relics and remains of peoples that were extinct long before the dawn of recorded history are gathered here for study. Here can be found great plates of beaten gold from Central America; superb groups of African elephants; mummies from Egypt; balis from Java; boomerangs from Australia; harpoons of the Eskimos; Chinese paintings and Japanese prints. It is one of the great collections of the world.

The Field museum is a boon to men and women engaged in the industrial arts as designers in metals, in ceramic, and in textiles. Here are gathered for study examples of the work of all the ages and of all peoples. The museum has a special appeal to the young mind, interested as it is in the specific. It can almost be said that the youthfulness and resilience of an individual's mind can be determined by the degree of his interest in the collections. The steady growth in the resources and appeal of the museum is in itself an indication of the mental vitality of the community.

Editorial of the Day

OUT OF A GRAND PAST.

[Aurora Beacon News.]

The ghosts of a grand old past come out today to walk the streets in Williamsburg, Va. They are the ghosts of May 15, 1776, when they were men and lived a stupendously daring hour in history, an hour that changed the world's ideas of government, an hour that has echoed and reechoed throughout the council halls of the world for a century and a half.

For, May 15, 1776, was inaugurated formally the greatest statement of civil liberties known to man, the Declaration of Independence.

The colonies had seen the way, to be sure, but there had been no formal action. It remained for Virginia, with earnestness and without fear, to put down on paper the realization that a break with England was inevitable.

The Virginia convention on that eventful day passed the Virginia resolutions and planted the seed that was to grow into the Declaration of Independence.

We cannot hear Patrick Henry tell the world of liberty's sweetness. We cannot see a reenactment of the great scenes at Williamsburg 156 years ago, but we can read the glowing lines of Jefferson, and we should read them, for a busy America seems to forget so easily.

GOVERNMENT OWNERSHIP.

[Illinois State Journal, Springfield.]

The Muscle Shoals dispute seems as far from settlement as it ever was. Notwithstanding a joint committee of congress has succeeded in securing many bids for the operation of the plant that has cost the government one hundred and fifty million dollars and has recommended one of them, a small body of government operators denounce it and let it be known they will oppose its adoption, which means no Muscle Shoals legislation at this session of congress.

A poll of the country undoubtedly would show a vast majority opposed to governmental operation of business and industry, yet this band of senators, assuming they are right and the rest of the country wrong, interfere with the orderly solution of this problem. The government probably would do with Muscle Shoals what it has done with the Panama canal—divert it to the special benefit of a certain section of the country to the disadvantage of the rest.

KILLING ANTS, ROACHES, FLU.

HERMS tells us that no other social insect has so successfully reached a dominating position of world-wide distribution as has the ant.

This may be true, but the common house fly is a close second. Most people would find it easily first. But, beyond question, wherever men are, ants are. Fortunately, they carry no diseases, also the eating of sugar would have wiped out the human family a long time ago. It is not an easy matter to keep from eating a few ants, while some savage races like them and eat them with intent.

The ant is a clean insect individually and collectively. An ant hill as large as a human habitation and harboring billions of ants will be free from offensive odors and evidences of filth. Compare the filth of a large ant hill on the African veldt with a pig pen one hundredth the size. Possessing the sources of ants makes them a poor house for humans. At any rate, ants have never been accused of carrying any disease. But they are very destructive.

The department of agriculture recommends the following formula: Granulated sugar, 1 pound; water, 1 quart; arsenic of soda, 125 grains; concentrated lye, 1 ounce. Boil, strain and add a little honey.

For Argentine ants. Granulated sugar, 12 pounds; water, 12 pints; crystallized tartaric acid, 4 ounces; benzoate of soda, 1-4 ounce. Mix. Boil slowly for 24 minutes. Dissolve three-fourths ounce of arsenic of soda in one-half pint of hot water. Cool. Add to the syrup. Stir. Add 2 pounds of honey.

Both of these mixtures are poisonous for human beings and animals. A simple method to use in the house is as follows: Saturate a sponge with strong lye. Wipe it where ants are. When ants cover the sponge throw it in hot water. Repeat the trap and set it.

Roaches are not of much consequence as a disease. But they are destructive. They are filthy and they indicate filth.

To kill them, dust very freely with sodium fluoride or some other roach powder. Powdered borax is a good roach powder.

REPLY.

You are right in a few points. Flies do not breed much in garbage, particularly in the kitchen. They are attracted to the garbage and not the maternity department.

Burning garbage is far from being the only method of disposal. It is generally not even the best method. Except as to these points, I have no fight with you.

powder. One part powdered borax and three parts finely pulverized chocolate is another. Cleanliness and light are about as powerful as powder in driving roaches away.

Flies are important disease carriers wherever there is any to carry. A weak solution of formalin is a good fly poison, according to Howard. There is a good fly poison made of formalin and a pint of milk or water sweetened with a little sugar. A glass is filled with this solution. A saucer or plate lined with blotting paper is put over this glass. A funnel is run between the glass rim and the blotting paper at one point. The saucer and glass are quickly inverted. As fast as the water in the saucer evaporates it is replenished from the glass. This method method only works in rooms where there is otherwise little water and fly food. When water and crumbs abound, sticky fly paper and fly cord are used with advantage.

THE GARBAGE PROBLEM.

J. T. W. writes: Your interesting article on "Controlling Insect Breeding" did not reach the present favorite "Tring" fly. It is a pest of the domestic garbage can. However, it has not been overlooked by some of our vaudeville performers, who submit a riddle to their audiences: "What is it that has four wheels and flies?" The answer is, obviously, "A garbage wagon."

IN OLD MISSOURI.

R. H. L.: And I will add that I, too, have memories of Missouri, and hard by Columbia—memories of Renick, which in my boyhood was called "Hell's Half-Acre" by the hardy Welsh miners; of Moberly, then the "Prairie City," with its 4,000 people; of Highbee and Elliott, mining towns where I played baseball; of Sturgeon, where my grandfather raced the original "Red Maria" on the old Buena Vista straightaway in the days before the civil war; of Centerville, where "Pap" Price's outriders did an Iowa company to death; of Switzer, where I played on the pit-dump and looked longingly at the university town—Columbia—through the haze of autumn days; and of Columbia itself, where my own school—Drake—tried in later years to twist the "Tigers" tail and sometimes did. Yes, Dick, I, too, knew Missouri in dear, dead days before Iowa adopted me and

BANK OF FRANCE STAKES ITS GOLD TO RESCUE FRANC

Will Cover $200,000,000 in Exchange Deals.

BY JAY ALLEN.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

PARIS, May 21.—By the liberal use of sanding methods Premier Aristide Briand and Finance Minister Raoul Dauterive forced the regents of the Bank of France to back down and accept an agreement by which the state making institution will use its financial strength to back up the operations of international markets of the great Parisian banks. These operations are aimed to restore the franc to a safe level of exchange. However, M. Peret, who is in charge of the operations, is understood to have actually on the bank's gold reserve.

It is understood that under the compromise agreement reached with M. Dauterive, governor of the Bank of France, an attempt will be made to purchase and bring home large quantities of the French money now held abroad. This money, it is claimed, has been used to beat down the exchange value of the franc. The Bank of France, it is stated, will use 1,000,000 francs ($200,000,000) of its gold reserve to cover the deal.

Brings Quick Jump of Franc.
The effect of the compromise was immediate on the franc, which had taken a sudden drop to 33.25 to the dollar when the gravity of the state's relations with its bank was revealed. It closed tonight at 31 francs 50 centimes to the dollar. It continued to rise after closing to 30 francs 80 centimes to the dollar.

The most powerful Parisian bankers assured that they will be backed up by the Bank of France's comforting gold reserve, are willing to lend support to the government, which has been forced to look abroad previously. They immediately entered the market and began buying francs wholesale.

Strengthens Briand Government.
THE TRIBUNE learns it is not a question now with the French government of stabilization, which the American bankers strongly advise, but only an emergency measure to bring the franc up to about 140 francs to the pound in view of the opening of parliament on May 27.

Although the position of the government momentarily is strengthened, all France is watching Belgium's experiment in a similar situation with a coalition government.

GUNS STILLED IN SYRIA AS FRENCH MAKE PEACE BID

Most of Rebels' Demands Met in Terms.

BY GEORGE SELDES.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
DAMASCUS, Syria, May 20.—[Delayed.]—An armistice between France and the Syrian rebels reigns today as a result of a convention agreed upon between the provisional government at Damascus, including the nationalists, and the French authorities, representing the league of nations.

The first night after the convention was signed was broken only by a shooting affray in the Christian quarter of Damascus. Forty men entered, stealing horses.

Bearing ten proposals which give the rebels virtually everything they demanded when they declared war against Gen. Sarrail, the former governor, a delegation of nationalists participating in the government will depart into no man's land or the mysterious hills where Bakry Akkrecht and other rebel war leaders under political control of Dr. Shabander have their headquarters.

Syrians Hopeful of Peace.

The nationalists inform Tux Tux that they believe early peace is in sight. The points in the peace proposal follow:

1. A constitutional assembly is granted, based on national sovereignty.
2. The mandate will be covered by a treaty for thirty years, like the Mesopotamian mandate of Great Britain.
3. Syrian unity is guaranteed.
4. Judiciary unity is guaranteed.
5. A national army is to be allowed with gradual French evacuation.
6. Syria is to join the league of nations on the same status as Iraq.
7. Monetary reform will be effected, restoring the gold standard and abolishing the present depreciated money, based on the French franc.
8. General amnesty is provided for all rebels, except those accused of private murder and looting.
9. The state of siege is lifted from Damascus. Indemnities imposed also are lifted.
10. War victims will be aided.

France Gives Liberal Terms.
By winning a decisive battle at Saida, France is able to grant extraordinarily good terms, which is all the more remarkable because France is on the point of crushing the rebellion decisively elsewhere. According to Gen. Andrea and other authorities, the terms show that France is adopting Great Britain's interpretation of the mandatory system in Iraq.

YOUTHS ADVISED TO TAKE INSULT AS THEIR LIFE'S HERO

As Samuel Insull, at the age of 21, took Thomas A. Edison for his hero, so the young man of today who is looking for a hero is advised to look to Mr. Insull is a tribute paid to the Chicago power magnate by B. E. Sunny at Philadelphia yesterday. The occasion was the presentation of a portrait of Mr. Insull to the Franklin Institute.

To the young man who may incline to the election of Samuel Insull as his hero, and I warmly commend the choice, I need scarcely say that his career will be one of constant and continuing toil, of sacrifice of leisure and comfort; of burdens and responsibilities; of contest and controversy; of force and sternness; of tenderness and charity," said Mr. Sunny. "His patience must never tire nor his courage weaken. But he will succeed."

Mr. Insull's business career since he came to Chicago in 1902 to take an office in the Chicago Edison company was reviewed by Mr. Sunny.

SAILOR HONORS FOR TOM DIRE, GUNMAN'S VICTIM

Funeral services with military honors were held yesterday for Thomas Dire, 27 year old son of Joseph Dire, wealthy Oak Park coal dealer, who was shot and killed in a street battle with a man believed to have been James McDonough.

A detail of ex-sailors, members of the American Legion, escorted the body from the late home of Dire, 4451 South Michigan avenue, to St. Ann's church. Burial was in Mount Carmel cemetery.

Dire's mother, father, and brothers attended the funeral. The elder Mrs. Dire and Mabel Ellickson Dire, wife of the gunman's victim, were consoled by other members of the family. A charge of larceny against Mrs. Ellickson Dire was called before Judge Harry B. Miller yesterday, but because of the funeral a continuance to May 31 was taken.

JUDGE REFUSES LENIENCY TO 40 WOMEN PICKETS

Calls Them Ruffians as Social Workers Plead.

"These women were Amazons—female ruffians—who, in the opinion of the Supreme court of this state, were engaged in an open conspiracy to defy the court. It would be robbing justice of her sword and substituting a powder puff to commute their sentences."

Thus Superior Judge Denis E. Sullivan replied yesterday to seven club women and social workers who appealed to him to save from jail forty women, most of them mothers, found guilty of contempt of court for picketing during a garment worker's strike two years ago. The women must begin serving sentences of from ten to fifty days each within a few days following a decision of the Supreme court, which upheld their convictions by Judge Sullivan.

Jane Addams Leads Appeal.

Miss Jane Addams led the delegation. With her were Mrs. Joseph T. Bowen, Mrs. Harold L. Ickes, Mrs. B. Langworthy, Miss Mary McDowell, Miss Agnes Nestor, and Miss Amelia Sears. They based their plea on "humanitarian ideas." It would do the community no good, they argued, to send to jail forty women, whose crime was that they had attempted, though lawlessly, to get higher wages. It was suggested that the wholesale incarceration of a number of women, in face of criminal conditions in Chicago today, would incite disorder, perhaps rioting, among certain classes.

Judge Cold to Plea.

When the speakers began to talk feelingly of the plight of the women de-

LEARN HOW TO WORK, IS COURT'S ADVICE TO ALIMONY SEEKER

San Francisco, Cal., May 21.—[U.P.]—Mrs. Sally Obeor Abbott, prominent socially in California and the east, has been refused permanent alimony and advised by the Divorce court to "learn how to work."

This court is not one that believes a strong, healthy woman, suing her husband for divorce, should be paid alimony," said Judge Louis H. Ward. Despite Mrs. Abbott's plea that she never had supported herself, the court granted but $50 a month temporary alimony, pending settlement of the suit.

Defendants, of the little ones dependent upon them, Judge Sullivan remarked acidly:

"Even if I wished, I could do nothing for these women. I have no power to lessen their punishment. But if you women had heard the trial of these Amazons, I doubt if you would present such a plea."

After they were warned that they were defying the court, but their attitude was insolent. They attacked other women who wished to work. One woman attacked a policeman who also had children dependent upon him, pushed him down an area-way and crippled him for life.

"Public Opinion" Roils Court.

The conference had been peaceful until then. One of the women murmured something about "public opinion." The judge grew angry.

"I must bid you ladies good-day," he said. "I should be less than a judge if I allowed public opinion to influence my actions on the bench."

There were apologies and denials that any threat had been contained in the remark. It was finally decided that the women should collect data on the conditions in which the defendants were living. And it was practically agreed that two women, now in sanitariums, would not be sent to jail.

ILLINOIS RIVER PLAN COMES UP IN HOUSE TODAY

Washington, D. C., May 21.—[Special.]—Michigan and Ohio members are preparing tonight for the bitter fight scheduled to begin in the house tomorrow when the $38,000,000 omnibus rivers and harbors bill, including authorization for the completion of the Illinois river waterway, comes to the floor under a special rule.

Admitting that they probably cannot muster enough votes to knock the Illinois waterway provision out of the bill, the anti-Chicago bloc is determined to conduct such an effective filibuster against the measure that when it is passed it will be too late for the senate to act before congress adjourns.

Accordingly, their first attack will center in an attempt to prevent ratification of the special rule until the Illinois river project is eliminated, and falling in that, it is planned that each of the fifty or sixty members of the anti-Chicago bloc will avail themselves of their right to spend five minutes on each of the more than 150 sections of the bill.

M'ERLANE LOSES COURT SKIRMISH FOR FREEDOM

Frank McErlane, fighting to escape extradition to Lake county, Ind., where he is under indictment for murder, failed yesterday to obtain his liberty on technicalities.

The south side beer chieftain, taken from the county jail to the courtroom of Judge John F. McGorty, appeared nervous as his attorneys, Benedict J. Short and Michael Ahern, argued that the extradition warrants were incorrectly phrased. He was disappointed when Judge McGorty ruled that the documents were sufficiently clear and that the only question was one of fact.

The defense produced two witnesses who failed to identify McErlane as the slayer of Thaddeus Fancher, a Crown Point attorney, two years ago. Assistant State's Attorney James McNeft of Lake county insisted that he could bring in John O'Reilly, who is serving a term in the Michigan City penitentiary for the same killing, and that O'Reilly would make a positive identification. In view of this the hearing was continued to Monday.

STANFIELD RUNS BEHIND IN EARLY VOTE IN OREGON

Wet Candidate for Senate
Is Fourth.

Portland, Ore., May 21.—(AP)—Returns from 156 precincts out of 1,847 gave Stewer, 2,704; Stanfield, 2,223; Clark, 2,917; Sandblast, 1,069.

Portland, Ore., May 21.—(Special.)—Senator Robert W. Stanfield of Portland was trailing Fredrick Stewer, Sandblast, farmer and lawyer, and coming about even with A. E. Clark, Oregon's six cornered Republican primary for the United States senate in early returns from all parts of the state tonight.

The only avowed wet candidate, L. Sandblast, almost unknown in politics until he announced himself for nomination of the Volstead law, was running fourth.

Stanfield is trailing. Returns from 140 precincts out of 1,847 in the state gave Stewer, 3,265; Stanfield, 1,946; Clark, 1,911; Sandblast, 1,069. The other candidates, Barrett, Grey, and Shumway, were trailing far behind.

The issues involved were for the most part purely local. Although Stanfield had voted for the world court, the court was not made an issue by any of the candidates. The nomination issue attracted little attention until after the victory of William S. Vare in Pennsylvania last Tuesday, when Sandblast was brought into more prominence than he had previously commanded.

A spirited race for the Democratic nomination for the senatehip developed between Bert T. Haney, who recently resigned from the United States shipping board, and Elton Watkins. With 57 precincts reporting, Haney led by a slight majority, the vote being: Haney, 1,075; Watkins, 1,065.

Patterson Leads for Governor. Early predictions that L. L. Patterson would win the Republican gubernatorial nomination seemed to be borne out in early returns, as he was leading the three cornered field by about 2,500.

Gov. Walter M. Pierce was about even to one ahead of Louise E. Palmer. In early returns for the Democratic nomination for governor.

FARMERS DEMAND GERMANY PUT BAN ON FOOD IMPORTS

Will Quit Fields if the Plea Is Denied.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

(Copyright, 1926, by The Chicago Tribune.)
BERLIN, May 21.—Farmers and peasants in the province of Brandenburg, who have formed a strong association, today issued an ultimatum to the German government and Reichstag demanding the prohibition of the importation of all grain, meat, and food which can be grown in Germany. They also ask that taxes on farms and real estate be cut down and cancellation of farmers' tax debts.

Unless they receive a satisfactory reply in four weeks the leaders of the movement threaten that the farmers will abandon the fields, storm the tax collectors' offices, and refuse to obey the orders of the government officials.

Embargo Blocked by Treaties.

Compliance with the request of the farmers would hit the American grain and packed meat. Germany has signed trade treaties with the United States, various South American nations, Denmark, and other food producing countries, and is unable to proclaim an embargo without violating the treaties. The leaders of the farmers are aware of this, but it is claimed the united "Landbund," which is an association of German junkers, is anxious to create difficulties for the republican government.

It is feared in Berlin that the farmers' upheaval will spread, since the Landbund controls the farmers in north Germany.

Farmers Storm Tax Offices.

In Neu Ruppins, Soldin, Schwiebus, and other towns the farmers tried to storm the tax collectors' office, but were thrown back by police and their own leaders. From lamp posts and trees, to which they fled when the mass of angry farmers slipped from their control and began to attack the public buildings, the leaders succeeded in inducing the farmers to return to their homes and await the government's reply to the four weeks' ultimatum.

Outraged Husband Kills

Wife and "Other Man"

Kansas City, May 21.—(AP)—Because his wife went away with another man, Boat R. Hicks, 38, a carpenter, tonight shot and killed her and the "other man" in the front yard of the home where they have been staying for the last month. Mary Hicks, 37, the wife, and Martin Erickson, 36, "the other man," were killed instantly.

FISHER'S LEAD OVER BEIDELMAN REACHES 14,163

Philadelphia, Pa., May 21.—(Special.)—As returns kept trickling in today the plurality of John S. Fisher, Republican dry candidate for governor, mounted to 14,163 over Edward E. Beidelman, running mate of Representative Vare, successful wet nominee for senator.

Returns from all except thirteen of the 8,281 precincts of the state gave Fisher 680,471, Beidelman, 626,308. Friends of Fisher say that figures in the missing precincts can not overcome this lead, as the districts failing to report include several in Allegheny county, where Fisher received a big plurality.

W. Harry Baker, chairman of the Republican state commission and leading supporter of Beidelman, refused to concede Fisher's nomination.

LEE DUNCAN BLUSHES DURING STORY OF GIRL

Lee Duncan, owner of the famous moving picture dog, Rin Tin Tin, grew suddenly red and bowed his head on the table in Judge William Morgan's court yesterday as Audrey Workman, 17-year-old daughter of Mrs. Charlotte Workman, 205 North Central avenue, made her charges as to her relations with him from May 11 to 15 in his suite at the Congress hotel.

Duncan offered to take her to California with him and take care of her, if anything happened, she said. He also offered her money, but she refused to take it.

Attorney Bernard P. Barasa said Duncan has reserved a stateroom for himself and Rin Tin Tin and plans to leave for California today, anticipating being cleared of the charge against him. A decision probably will be reached after 10 o'clock when witnesses are to appear in behalf of Duncan.

OAK PARK BOYS' DIPLOMA HOPES WANE IN COURT

Fight Against Suspension Meets More Delay.

Oak Park high school seniors who were among the students suspended because of their membership in secret fraternities saw their hopes of graduation on June 6 go glimmering yesterday, when more delay in the hearing of the students' mandamus suit against the board of education was placed in their way by attorneys for the board and they were refused permission to return to school pending settlement of the case in court.

Attorney Frank E. Cantwell, counsel for the students, stated in Judge William Lindsay's court during the hearing that the suspended students had been refused admittance to Elmhurst and Crane high schools because of the attitude of the Oak Park authorities.

Hearing Delayed Till Monday.
The hearing was continued until Monday to permit Mr. Cantwell to amend his petition, the court temporarily sustaining the demurrer argued by Attorney F. W. Kraft for the board. The argument was highly technical. The court ordered an answer to the amended petition to be ready at once but Mr. Kraft objected to this, and will be given more time.

"I had assumed that you represented the welfare of the community as well as the board of education," the court said in commenting on the necessity for delay. "There are social questions involved here. How to cure and prevent crime is one of the great problems of the day. Psychological experts concur that lack of education, restraint and proper training, and failure to give opportunity for education are largely responsible."

Pleads for Seniors' Return.
Mr. Cantwell said that there are 100 other students in Oak Park who belong to secret fraternities, and this has been known for four years. "Can't these boys return to school?" he asked for the eleven seniors involved, who do not want to miss their graduation.

"No, we don't want any upset like that," said Mr. Kraft.

Ford Madox Ford Gives Helpful Hints on Mirror to France

By Sidney Dark.
[English Critic.]
LONDON.—[Special Correspondence.]—Ford Madox Hueffer used to live in Kent, with the result that, among many other volumes of interest and value, he wrote a delightful book called "The Soul of England." Now, as he lives in France and is known as Ford Madox Ford, and following precedent, he has recently published an equally interesting and suggestive book which he calls "A Mirror to France."

In it he has much that is interesting to say about himself, a little that is rather silly about England and the English and a great deal that is true and helpful about France and the French. It is of the first importance that England and America should both have something like an accurate idea of the nation whose fate and ambitions are the chief cause of the present European entanglement, and in a book that is readable in its every page Mr. Ford materially helps towards the necessary knowledge.

Some months ago Hilaire Belloc published a novel, "Mr. Petre," which was illustrated by his familiar, G. K. Chesterton. In the autumn the color illustration was repeated with another novel to which Belloc has given the title, "The Emerald." He is at the present moment working on his life of the duke of Marlborough and the second volume of his History of England, and by way of diversion, is bringing up to date the famous "Mrs. Markham's History of England."

Sean O'Casey, the Dublin gay laborer who became famous with the London production of "Juno and the Paycock," has published a second play, "The Plough and the Stars," which, with its grim, unforced tragedy, makes his genius unquestioned and gives him the right to be counted with J. M. Synge. The theme of "The Plough and the Stars" is the Dublin Easter rebellion.

Maurice Barling is a literary adventurer, always exploring new countries and always making delightful discoveries. His latest book, "The Glass Menagerie and Other Stories," is a collection of fairy tales which properly conform to the accepted conventions with many touches of a fantasy that is the author's own.

A book of outstanding value to the student of sociology is R. H. Tawney's "Religion and the Rise of Capitalism." The author argues that it was the Puritan who supplied the apology for the gospel of success and destroyed the connection between religion and the incidents of everyday life that existed in the middle ages.

Arnold Bennett's next novel will be published in the late summer. It is called "Lord Ramage" and has a semi-political theme.

Atlantic Monthly to Pay $10,000 Prize for Best Novel

All dramatic and moving picture rights remain with the author. This is the largest single prize ever offered by a magazine or publisher alone, without the aid and abetment of a moving picture magnate.

CONFESSIONS

Kathleen Norris is one of the most popular women writers in America. Her devotion to the church is the subject of her latest book, "The Year of the Wood Dragon," which is in her customary style, and is as satisfying to the multitudes as anything she has ever done. When I asked Mrs. Norris what book she would rather have written than any other she replied:

"I wish I had written 'Little Lord Fauntleroy.' I read it serially in St. Nicholas in 1889. I need hardly say I was a precocious child, and read while very, very young, and lay on the floor poring over the Birch illustrations with their slim little black legs, and I wished then, with an aching heart, that I had written that story, and I read it to a small sister and brother in 1893, and to my own and my sister's children between 1913 and 1918, and only last year I read it to an enraptured namesake niece of 7, and liked it just as well."

I will have to be dead before Dear-est's phrase: "Is it—?" she said. "Is it indeed Lord Fauntleroy?"—falls to thrill me. The whole thing thrills me, although I am agnities and fortunes and snobs and aristocracy generally, and it simply coaxes them! A hundred-a thousand books I love more.

But I wish I had written "Little Lord Fauntleroy."

Long of Losers Drives Ball Over Fence.

Harrison Tech High school's baseball team added another victim to its long string yesterday by defeating Wendell Phillips, 6 to 2, at White City ball park.

Long of Wendell Phillips hit the ball over the fence in the second inning, one of the four hits made of Mankowski. Score:

Harrison..... 600 000 1-0 6-1

ROSENBERG TO SIGN MAY 29
FOR TAYLOR GO

Charley Phil Rosenberg, world's bantamweight champion, will come to Chicago May 29 to sign articles for his championship match with Bud Taylor. This contest will be staged by Promoter Jim Mullen in one of the local ball parks, probably on June 28.

The bantamweight title holder is scheduled to box in Cleveland May 28 and will come to Chicago on the following day. The articles will be signed in the presence of the Illinois boxing commission. Substantial forfeits will be posted to insure the holding of the match.

Taylor will resume light training here next week. He is now in Terre Haute, Ind., trying to rid himself of boils and may go to West Baden for a few days before coming to Chicago.

Victory of Pete Latzo over Mickey Walker, which carried with it the world's welterweight title, was not much of a surprise to Chicago fighters and their managers. The general opinion was that Walker held his opponent too cheaply and did not have enough fight under his belt. In his last fight, Walker was outboxed by Salter Freedman and Cowboy Padgett.

Walker Cup Team Arrives at Muirfield

GULLANE, Scotland, May 21.—(U. N. I.)—Good weather arrived simultaneously with members of the Walker cup team at the Muirfield course yesterday. Bobby Jones, Francis Outmet, and George Von Elm had a splendid day on the soft, rolling fairways.

Chick Evans played phenomenally. He had 49 on the course, where 74 is par. Bobby Jones had an excellent round in the afternoon.

Gummet's score Friday morning was 77. Jones, Mackenzie, and Von Elm spent the morning beneficially, although they did not turn in their cards.

In addition to the Walker cup team, eighteen other Americans have entered the Muirfield matches, including three from Jacksonville. Douglas Grant, James Scott, and Jacksonville Monday in the first round of the match.

The entire countryside is golf mad. Scottish golf authorities believe the Americans are the most dangerous of the Muirfield entries and they are declared by many to be the class of the field.

The worst features of the course as far as the Americans are concerned are the fast rolling, tricky greens.

Harmans Play Blues-Cermak Winner Today

BY BOB BECKER.

Wolf River, Langlade Co., Wis., May 21.—(Special.)—Fishermen of this picturesque stream, which is noted for its brook and rainbow trout, not only need waders but wading shoes with spikes. Those who neglect to don the spiked boots will find the "skating" excellent and unbecomely cold baths frequent, as it is almost impossible to keep one's footing on slippery rocks unless you're wearing shoes that hold you against the rushing current.

Manitowish and Freeport, Ill., Chicago and other points south are represented on the river today, as anglers from these localities are up here fighting the trout. This afternoon after we had fished a few fish, thrown a "lifetime" to "Bill" Aft as he skated into a deep hole, and then called it a day, we met up with one Chicago camping party that had been lured into the open by the rainy spring weather.

And here's a tip for the motoring fisherman who would combine camping with his trout stuff. Highway No. 55 through the Meacham Indian reservation and to the Wolf river country is a beauty. One can get a million dollars' worth of scenery thrown in with a world of snappy brook trout fishing while traveling over this old military highway, once used by the rumbling stage coaches.

WHEAT REACTS ON LONG SELLING RALLY AIDS CORN

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

May wheat reversed its action of Thursday and after a range of 4¢ to the day closed 1 1/4¢ lower at $1.62 1/2, with long grain coming out 1 1/2¢. Opening as high as $1.64 1/4, it dropped to $1.60 1/4 later with commission houses selling May and buying July 4 1/4¢. Rye was 1/4¢ higher with prices unchanged to 1/4¢ higher with prices at $1.56 1/4 to $1.56 1/2.

Trade in corn was extremely light, but toward the last there was short covering and a strong rally with the close at 7 1/2¢, and net gains of 1/4¢ with May at 7 1/2¢, and July at 7 1/4¢. Oats were unchanged to 1/4¢ higher with prices at 26 1/2¢ to 27 1/4¢. Rye was 1/4¢ higher with May at 55¢ and July at 55 1/2¢.

Cash wheat weakness. General evening up is under way in May wheat, with speculative operations the main influence. It develops that there are several liberal sales of May wheat. May held here in addition to the line said to be held for a Canadian operator, any one of which, it is claimed, is in excess of the quantity of cash wheat that can be brought here in time for delivery.

In consequence of this situation a break of 3/4¢ in local cash premiums and of 1/2¢ in values in Omaha had little effect on the market. At one time Kansas City May declined sharply to break there, but coincident with selling here. Buying of May was scattered.

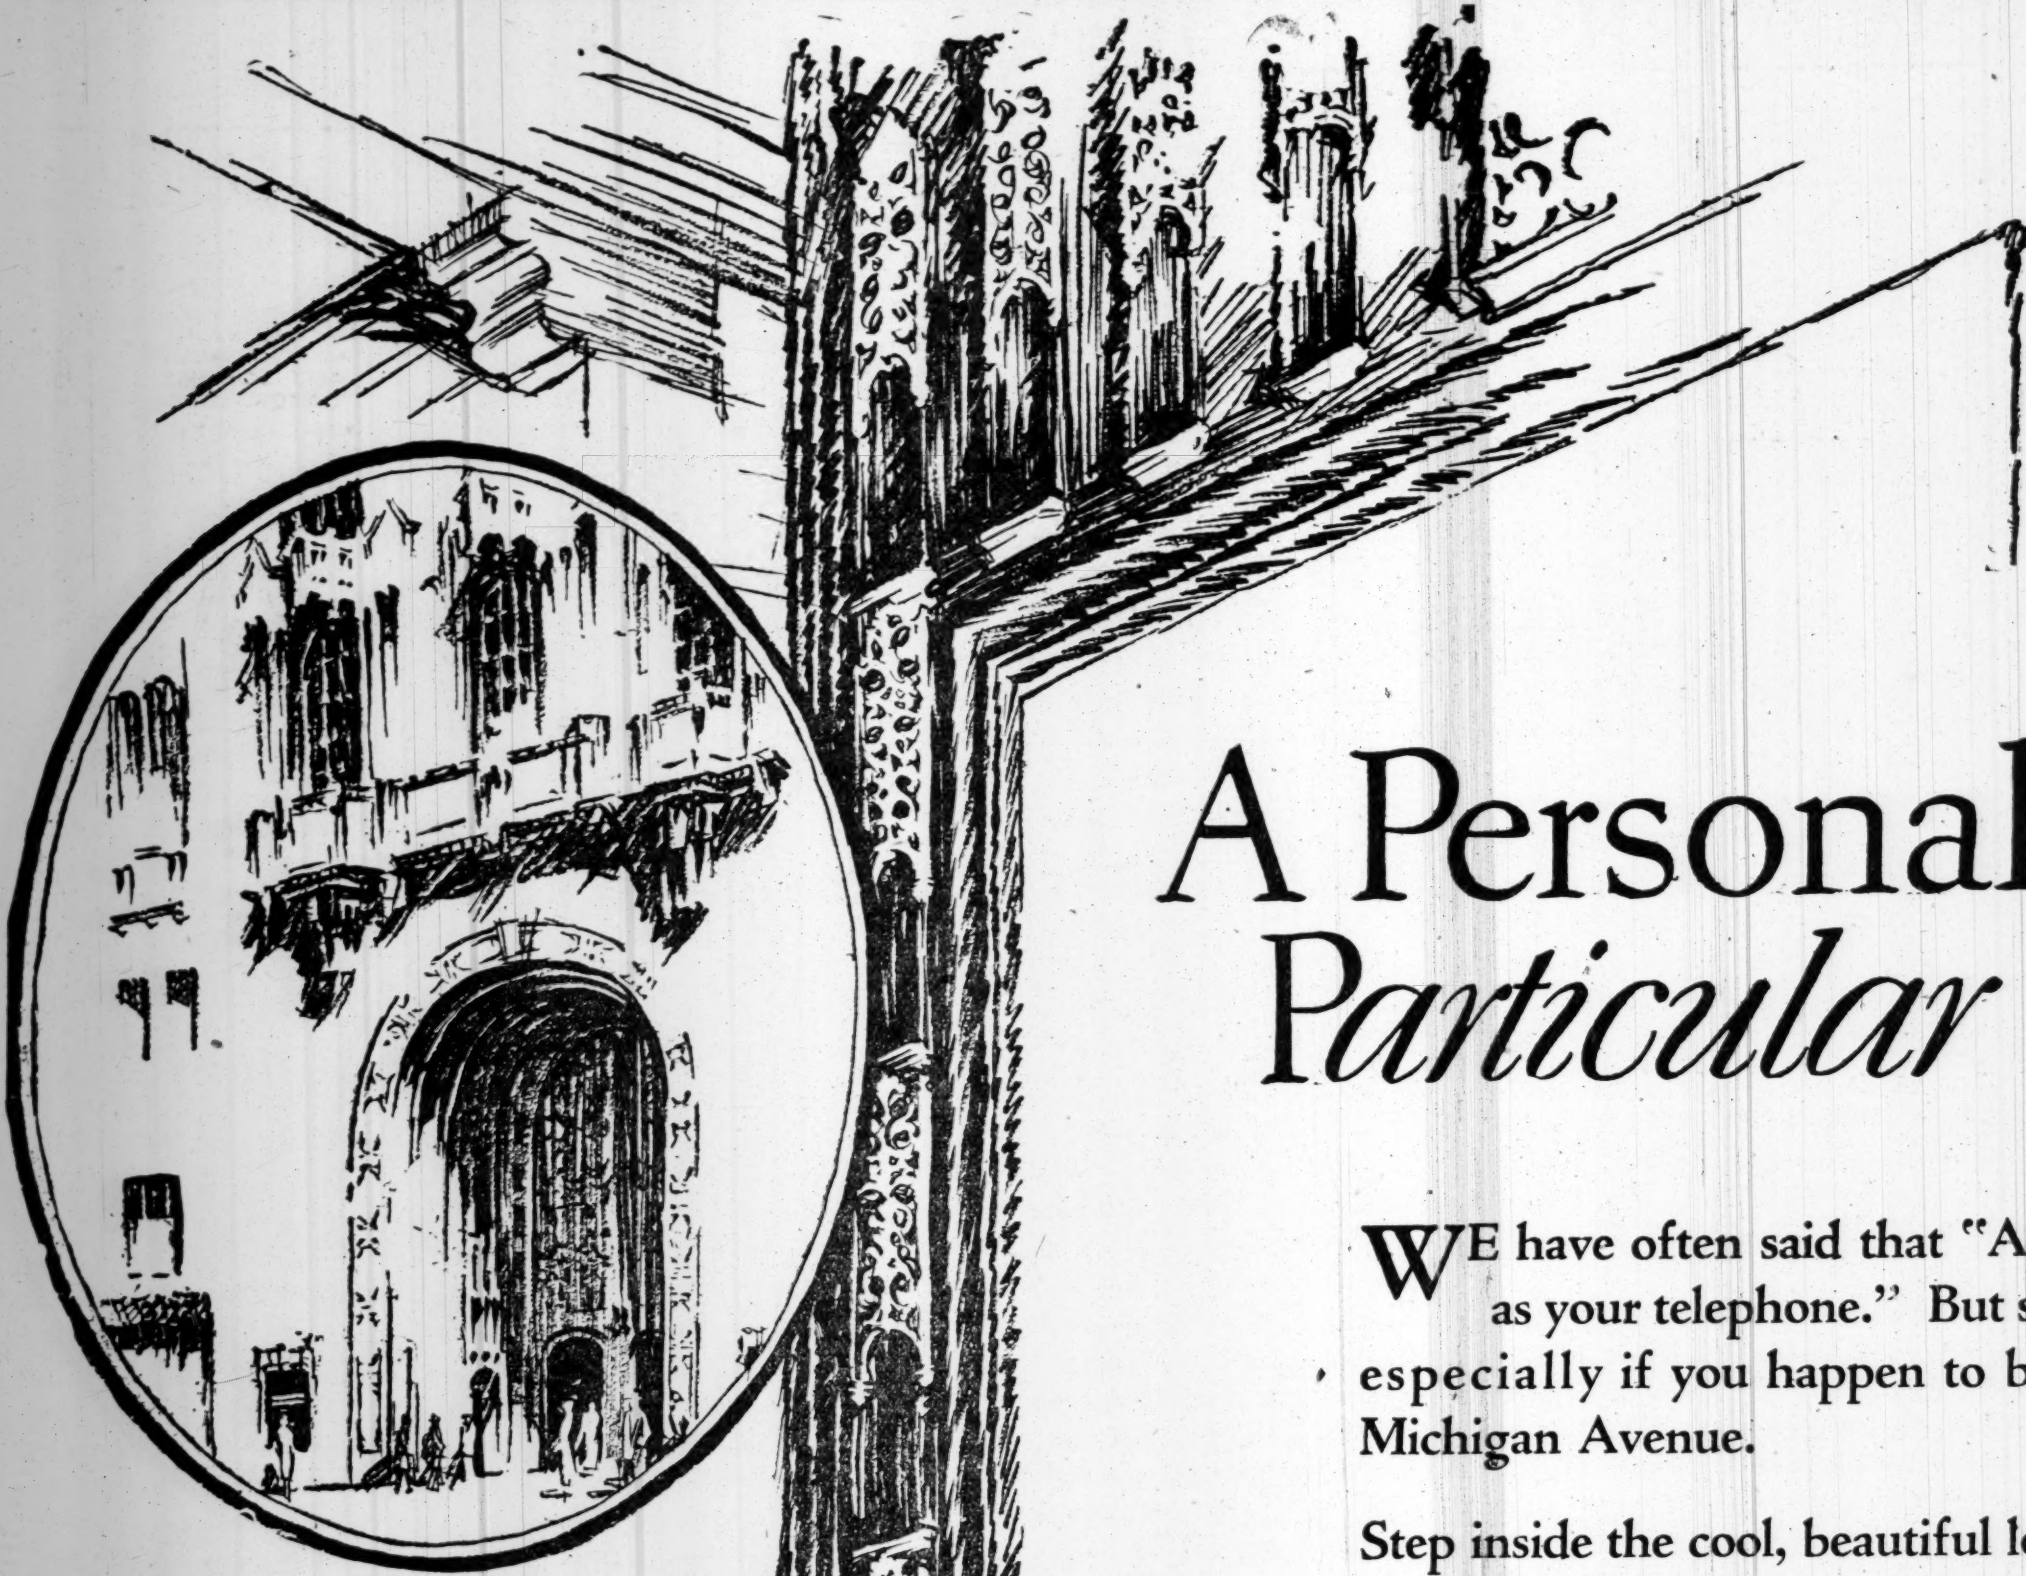

Reports of rains in the American and Canadian northwest had a little effect on the deferred delivery early, but the official returns showed that the moisture was almost entirely in the way of showers, and the forecast was for fair and warmer both sides of the international line. Toward the last shorts bought July and September on reports of export sales of around 1,000,000 bu, largely Manitoba, and on prospects that the house would pass the Haugen bill.

While there seems to be little change of the latter passing the senate, it had a sentimental effect. Exporters were buyers of wheat futures at Winnipeg, but that market closed 1/4¢ lower. Lower in the face of the report sales and talk of larger foreign business, one Canadian mill selling 35,000 bu overnight. Liverpool closed 1/4¢ lower. European crop reports were somewhat more favorable due to a marked increase in weather conditions, but Broomhall's Italian agent estimates the crop of that country at 204,000,000 bu, or 28,000,000 bu less than harvested last year.

Corn Closely Strong. There was practically no outside trade in corn early, but toward the last covering by several local shorts caused a sharp upturn, with the selling largely by another set of local shorts. Prices were 1/4¢ lower to 1/4¢ higher with some increase in offerings to arrive from Illinois points. Weather conditions in the central west were favorable for the crop, and planting in the north was in many sections. Oats had a range of 1/4¢ with a limited trade, while rye was influenced largely by the action of wheat. No export business was reported at the seaboard.

Cash Grain News. Continental demand for cash wheat was much improved, with sales of around 1,000,000 bu. On the seaboard, including 600,000 bu. to Manitoba to Portland. Several days ago Switzerland bought 250,000 bu. for the market for another cargo with bids close to a working bid of 1.60 1/4. It was reported to 350,000 bu. of new crop winter wheat sold. Ocean charters for grain shipments at the seaboard, including three cargoes from Montreal, with 250,000 bu. from New York to Rotterdam, grain shipment at 11¢. Sales of other grains were small.

The Law of the Talon

By Louis Tracy.

SYNOPSIS.
The Park, Hudson Bay company's agent at Moose Lake, is greatly disturbed by a letter from an English paper announcing the coming marriage of Alistair Spenser to Eileen Grant and referring to the prospective groom as the heir presumptive of Lord Oban. The problem's only son, John Bridgforth Pantan, had disappeared some time before and his death is about to be presumed by law. Park decides to leave Moose Lake and go back to England.
Arrived at Edmonton, Park tells Mr. Leslie, the temporary head of the Hudson Bay company, that he is John Bridgforth Pantan.
Leslie's daughter, a sympathetic listener to the tale and she encourages her father to help young Pantan.
In the meantime, Eileen Grant is married in London to Alistair Pantan. Immediately after the ceremony she learns that John Pantan is alive and is on his way to England to claim an inheritance left him by his aunt.
Lord Oban, John Pantan's father, tells Eileen that his son had been dismissed from service for cowardice under fire and drunkenness and that he is unable to forgive him. John and his dog, Spot, arrive in England, and John is armed with a letter of introduction to Leslie's brother, a lawyer living at Wimbledon.

INSTALLMENT XII.
A WELCOME FOR THE WANDERERS.
In glancing through the files Pantan came across an account of the marriage. He read it from beginning to end, noting particularly the names of all who attended the reception and donors of wedding presents. It did not seem that Eileen that day had been in tune with "The voice that reached her Eden." In her case there was nothing to forgive. She had heard no word of him for seven long years, and he himself had bid her forget. But Alistair—that ingratiating rascal—he must be made to pay some sort of heavy reckoning. If only he had not married Eileen, Cousin John might, indeed, have claimed Lady Bridgforth's legacy but he would have gone out of his way to avoid a scandal. Now he was bent on raising one. He was almost glad that his enemies, including, alas, his own father, were seemingly ready to meet him more than half way.

He went straight to a telephone office and sent a third message to Lord Mountford. It was then Wednesday, June 24, and he undertook to present himself in court on the Friday. Luckily, he allowed for his own complete ignorance of legal procedure, and wanted one clear day in which to consult his "eminent" lawyer, Mr. David Leslie, according to the description given him by his niece, Miss Maple, of that ilk. Pantan was prepared to trust any member of the Leslie family. They had been friendly when friendship was warmly needed.

So he and Spot reached London late on the Wednesday night, and were allowed admission to three hotels on the ground that dogs were not allowed in bedrooms. A fourth opened its doors. Early next morning Pantan himself of the telephone. Yes, here was "Leslie, David, Braeside, The Common, Wimbledon." A call was soon put through, and a voice which closely resembled one he had heard little over a fortnight ago in Edmonton made him welcome.

"I've had news of you from my brother," it said, speaking with a deliberation which was all that was left of a once marked Scottish accent, "and I've followed your progress through various small items in the newspapers. Where are you staying?"

Pantan told.

"Eh, man, but that's a poor address," came the surprised comment. "I can't help myself. I'm badly dressed, have no luggage, and am accompanied by a disreputable-looking hound."

"My niece, Mr. Leslie, wrote about 'Spot.' Well, well. Stand fast there. I reach you in an hour's time. I'll have my managing clerk come along. He knows London better than most, and there's no use in bringing me to the city until other arrangements are made. How are you off for money?"

"I have four hundred and fifty pounds in my pocket."

"Far too much. You must put the hundreds into a bank. There are some wilds in London than in northern Alberta, and you may not be able to take care of yourself as well here as you did out there."

John laughed. He was getting back into close touch with his fellow wanderer. Mr. Leslie meant inviting him to stay at Wimbledon, which would be an exceeding pleasant thing for Spot and himself, but with commendable thought, the elderly lawyer thought fit to "give him the once over first."

"The Northwest put it."

Leslie was good as his word. He brought with him a sharp featured man, whom Pantan had seen waiting outside the hotel for some minutes. This was Mr. Jenkins, whose knowledge of London rivaled that of Sam Weller. His extent and profundity soon became apparent. After a short chat, during which Pantan was amazed to find the variety and complexity of the legal proceedings rendered necessary by his failure to claim his estate's bequest at the proper time, Mr. Leslie went to his office, and Mr. Jenkins took charge of the strangers, man and dog. Spot was visited, and personal belongings acquired. Some were taken away in portmanteaux and suitcases. Others were left for alterations, prompt delivery being guaranteed, and the address was at Wimbledon.

Mr. Jenkins was a close bargainer, but he did not buy cheap articles. When he conducted Pantan to a bank it was necessary to deposit only three hundred pounds, leaving a balance in hand of about sixty.

"You see, Mr. Pantan," explained his Mentor, "clothes go a long way in making other people to form first impressions. All this stuff is good, and of it will last for years. Your greatest saving was in picking up my old baggage, which also avoids a too new appearance."

"By Jingo!" laughed Pantan, "I had the two articles I left at Greenock did not fall flat on that account."

Thereupon Mr. Jenkins heard the story of Spot's method of landing in the inviolate isles. He enjoyed it.

"You must be a remarkably clever dog," he said to Spot, seated on the floor of a taxi. That polite animal instantly proffered a paw.

"My eye!" cried the surprised Cockney. "He actually understands what you say!"

The wanderers were made welcome at Braeside, Wimbledon, though Mrs. Leslie and her domestic staff were inclined to view Spot with suspicion, noting that he resembled a full grown wolf rather than any dog within their ken hitherto. He made a bad start, too, by treating the household to a stern order from his master put that right, and he was soon devoted to the occupancy of any man or rug he felt inclined. Of course, there were alarms and excursions on the part of postmen, tradesmen's boys, and hawkers. These soon subsided. The new guard learned quickly to differentiate between callers and intruders.

As the cook said to the upper housemaid:

"I hope that those dog steps here, there won't be no burglars prowling round the house so long as he is about."

The Leslies' two surviving sons and a married daughter were out in the world, the boys in the far east, and the young matron in Birmingham. Brother and sister had fallen in France. Mrs. Leslie, knowing something of the not all of Pantan's story, took him to her heart. He was at home in those before he had slept a night under his roof.

There followed a period of comparative peace. He appeared only once in court, where Mr. Harvey, K. C., made amends for earlier unpleasant comments by explaining that Lord Oban and Mr. Alistair Pantan, the parties to the original proceedings, concurred in the application by counsel representing the Hon. John Bridgforth Pantan that the record should be withdrawn. There was no hint of ill feeling or legal hair splitting. A member of the firm of solicitors representing Lord Oban even gave formal evidence that he knew the heir well, had seen him many times, and recognized him at

"Is Lord Oban in court?" inquired the president.

"No, my lord," said counsel.

"Has he met his son since the latter came home after a long absence?"

"No, my lord. Lord Oban is ill, and hardly fit to travel. I have a letter, however, in which he offers, if it is absolutely necessary, to come to London and identify Mr. Pantan. Meanwhile, he has examined specimens of Mr. Pantan's handwriting, and is convinced of its genuineness. He encloses certain documents for your lordship's information."

The judge, who had glanced twice rather attentively at claimant, examined the proffered papers. He was about to return them, seemingly without comment, when John, unversed in the ways of the probate division, electrified the court by standing up and saying:

"May I see those, my lord?"

3 Weddings Hold Society's Interest Today

Miss Frances Coonley to Become Bride in East.

Chicago's romantic interests are divided three ways today to three fashionable weddings—that of Miss Frances Coonley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Stuart Coonley of 1245 Astor street, who is being wed in the east to Edward S. Rawson Jr. of New York City; Miss Olivia Fentress' marriage to Herman A. L. Behlen, also a New York man, at the residence of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Fentress of Hubbard Woods; and the union of two descendants of Chicago pioneers, Miss Alice Carpenter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Augustus A. Carpenter, and Stuart H. Otis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Otis of 1415 Astor street.

Miss Coonley's wedding takes place at the farm formerly owned by her grandmother, the late Mrs. Coonley Ward, near Rochester, N. Y. The bride attendants will be Miss Lydia Coonley, maid of honor; Mrs. John Stuart Coonley Jr. (Catherine Rehn) as matron of honor; Mrs. Edward K. Welles (Betty Scott), Dorothy Schmidt, Miss Elizabeth Connelley of Washington, D. C., Miss Elizabeth Bunkin of Cleveland, and Mrs. Edward Brooks of St. Paul, Minn., as bridesmaids. John Lawson is to be best man.

Miss Fentress is to become Mrs. Behlen at 4 o'clock this afternoon at the Fentress residence, 1127 Sheridan road, Hubbard Woods. The Rev. James Austin Richards reading the service. Miss Louise A. Fentress, the bride's sister, is to be her maid of honor and, also attendant, and George Masson of Windsor, Canada, is to be Mr. Behlen's best man. Mr. Behlen and his bride are to reside in New York City.

The Carpenter-Otis wedding is to be at 5 o'clock at the Lake Forest Presbyterian church and will be followed by a reception at the Carpenter residence. Mrs. Keith Carpenter is to be matron of honor, Miss Mary Smith, the maid of honor, and Miss Margaret Keeley, Miss Emily Otis, Miss Frances McFadden, Miss Laura Thompson, Miss May Merrill Dunn, Miss Genevieve Carpenter, and Miss Mary McKee are to be bridesmaids. Raymond Otis is to be best man, and Keith Carpenter, Ogden West, Harry Knott, Edwin Winter, Joseph E. Otis Jr., Sanford Otis, Herman Dunlop-Smith, and William B. Hawks are to usher. Mrs. John Newell of Cleveland, O., is the only out-of-town guest.

Count D'Yanville Arrives to Direct Eucharistic Work

Predicting through an interpreter the unqualified success of the twenty-eighth international Eucharistic congress, to be held here June 20 to 24, Count Henri D'Yanville, secretary of the permanent committee in charge of the Eucharistic congresses, reached Chicago yesterday from New York. He will enter at once upon the work of directing preparations for the Chicago congress, from an office at the local headquarters, 719 Cass street.

Although 61 years old, the energetic Little Frenchman bears his years lightly. He made known to Msgr. C. J. Quille, who received him at the La Salle street station, his desire to attend mass and receive holy communion, in accordance with a custom of many years. He was accordingly taken at once to the French church of Notre Dame, breakfasting afterwards at the monastery of the Blessed Sacrament, 1335 West Harrison street.

From then until late last night Count D'Yanville proved himself at most tireless, traveling from one part of the city to another on various missions connected with the launching of his work. He has served as secretary of the permanent committee of the congresses for fifteen years, contributing his services gratis. He is independently wealthy and is descended from one of the oldest families of France, tracing his lineage on his father's side to a French monarch, and on his mother's directly from William the Conqueror.

In Chicago Count D'Yanville will be quartered at the Palmer house, where thirty suites have been reserved for the executive staff of the congress.

Headed by the primate of Mexico, the Most Rev. Joseph Mora del Rio, aged archbishop of Mexico City, three archbishops and five bishops will come from there to attend the congress. It was announced yesterday. Each of the Mexican prelates will head a delegation from his own diocese.

Despite conditions in Mexico, the delegation from that country is expected to be one of the largest in attendance here. One railroad has already made reservations for 900 pilgrims from Mexico City alone.

N. U. Seniors Don the Cap and Gown for First Time

Northwestern university seniors, clad for the first time in their graduation caps and gowns, attended a meeting in Pisk hall yesterday. Dean Raymond A. Kent presided and read statistical reports of the year's work. A petition asking that the publication of "Circus Solly," issued each year in connection with the student circus, be taken out of the hands of the Y. M. C. A. was discussed by the seniors.

The Inquiring Reporter Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

The Tribune will pay $5 for each question accepted for the Inquiring Reporter to ask. Send name and address with your question to: The Inquiring Reporter, Chicago Tribune, For today's question R. C. Foster, 11 West Chicago avenue, was awarded $5.

The Question.
What do you think of the Pennsylvania election with reference to the wet and dry question?

Where Asked.
Washington street at Michigan avenue.

The Answers.
John P. Larkin, 445 East 70th street, in consideration of the Pennsylvania election one must remember that Mr. Vare, a wet, entered the fight against split days, otherwise the vote would have been a dry victory. Personally I am a wet, in behalf of the laboring man.

Mrs. D. W. Nichols, 6040 Winthrop avenue, artist—My husband and I are not exactly with the wets, but we believe that prohibition was thrust upon the country too suddenly. It was dry all at once and the country didn't dry up at all. The result is there about as much drinking as there was before.

Frank Clark, 1339 North Dearborn street, engineer—Pennsylvania has gone wet, and Illinois and all the other states should do so. We may well hope that the election in Pennsylvania is the beginning of the end of the false dry era in this country. Prohibition has been a failure, and a national failure sets a bad example.

Miss Phoebe Ferris, 1245 Chase avenue, home girl—I wouldn't say that I would like to have it go wet the way it is now. It is not satisfactory. Too many young people are displaying their prowess by getting hold of it somewhere somehow.

William Sheridan, 5714 Blackstone avenue, accountant—I am for the wets. I hope before long to be raining beer and wine. Just the way it is beginning to rain right now. L. W. & B. night wines and beer—that's the thing. The most temperate nations are those that drink beer and wine. There must be a reason.

Senator's Wife, Herself an Amateur, Defends Mediums

BY JAMES O'DONNELL BENNETT.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Washington, D. C., May 21.—(Special.)—All the prestige that testimony by a lady highly placed in official Washington could give them, the happy mediums got today. This came when Mrs. Duncan U. Fletcher, wife of the senior senator from Florida, took the witness stand in the house of representatives hearing on the bill of Representative Sol Bloom (Iowa, N. Y.), to curb fee taking in mediums and clairvoyants.

Her testimony was uncompromisingly favorable to the occult folk whom Houdini, "the handcuff king," is fighting at a cost to him personally—so he said under oath yesterday—of $40,000 a year.

From opposite ends of the committee table the frail Mrs. Fletcher and the muscular Houdini confronted each other, and Mrs. Fletcher said in gentle tones:

"The pitiful attempts of Mr. Houdini to expose trumpet mediumship and slate writing are no more like true spiritualistic manifestations than darkness is like daylight."

"I am speaking here today as a result of a pledge I made many years ago that I would help this cause at any time and in any place and in any way I could."

She meant spiritualism and mediumship and she spoke of her practitioners of the occult as "our mediums."

"My mother," Mrs. Fletcher continued, "was a marvelous medium, and I have never come in contact with a dishonest medium."

At this the billywig Madam Marcia, who today was dripping with jewelry and who was reveling in ordinary to the White House, so she claims, during the Harding administration, and Jane Coates, her sister medium, gave the handcuff king a searching once-over which was so special and particular that to call it a glaze would be to belittle it.

"It's all right," said Houdini handsomely. "Mrs. Fletcher is sincere, I have no doubt of that."

"No one in this room can produce a message from my own father," Mrs. Fletcher resumed, "in his own handwriting, allowing me to hold the slate, but such a message I have received, while at the same time four other messages in different kinds of handwriting containing at least six dozen words were being written; these messages coming not from Queen Elizabeth, Benjamin Franklin or George Washington, but from some of my own dear friends in the invisible world."

Countering on Houdini's expression of wonderment that in the matter of articles lost, strayed or stolen, the police do not engage mediums at $1 a reading, instead of maintaining expensive detective departments, Mrs. Fletcher said that through directions of a medium she had found a valuable violin left with her father 45 years ago by an eight-year-old boy; found the owner of it, too, a few months ago, although he long had been a wanderer.

"I believe," added Mrs. Fletcher, "the messages came from my father, who was interested in a bright light and without the aid of 'trumpets, cabinets, or paraphernalia of any kind,' but 'a young girl lay in their midst in a deep trance.'"

Answering charges by the mediums that he was "vile" and "polluted" and "a practitioner of black magic," Houdini brought to the witness stand Mrs. Houdini, who cheerfully testified that she was such a thing.

"Am I a good boy?" he asked.

"You are," said she.

"Thank you, my dear," said he.

"And she, gentlemen," said Houdini to the courtiers, "has starved and started with me."

Clubwomen End Sessions with Much Deerying

Newspapers, Rodeo, and Wets Their Targets.

Mild acceptance of election results, support for the Eighteenth amendment, a slap on the wrist for the present stern disapproval of the discipline given a Chicago policeman for arresting the wife of a labor leader, and former federal prisoner, and condemnation of the rodeo as a "cruel performance, in defiance of law and decency," were features of the closing session of the convention of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs yesterday.

Deerying the "prevailing pernicious propaganda" against prohibition as it now stands, Mrs. John H. Chadwick, resolutions chairman, read the original pre-dry resolution as framed at the federation convention in 1912.

Her charges brought the women to their feet, some of them rushing to the platform carrying American flags and banners reading: "This 19th Amendment Comes to the Aid of the 18th," "Use Your Heads, not Headlines."

"We hope the press is convinced of our sincerity," cried Mrs. George T. Palmer, retiring president, who is said to have made a speech in favor of modification a few weeks ago.

A resolution protesting against unfair and garbled convention accounts as given in some Chicago newspapers, was tabled after Mrs. Charles J. Trainor and Mrs. Samuel Horner had taken up the cudgels in behalf of the press.

Members were given valuable counsel at the club institute conducted by officers as part of the final session. Mrs. John S. Maurer, Mrs. J. Marc Fowler and Mrs. Maude Swain Evans were among the speakers.

"Do not use your federation for personal aggrandizement nor as a source of propaganda," said Mrs. Trainor. "Woman's chief function in life is to help men think, and that is what we must do. Cease being a pampered force, but make your actual value felt, and officials will think twice before violating their oaths of office. Women have traveled farther in the last five years than they did in a quarter century. Do not be trouble makers; guide, not dominate."

The counsel of Mrs. Maurer to "dear" the feeling for officers has been held "probably helped to inspire the applause with which the elections announcements were received as feeling ran high at the polls on Thursday, and there had been accusations of ballot box stuffing by Chicago alternates, and threats of a demand of recount."

Mrs. Walter W. Seymour, known as the "Palmer machine candidate," piled up a comfortable plurality over Mrs. John T. Mason for president, and the others on the Palmer ticket also were elected. Mrs. Mary A. Walle, of the phyllophora, is the new second vice president. Mrs. John C. Hanna of East St. Louis, third vice president, and Mrs. Palmer director in the general federation.

Promise of lively future sessions of the new board of directors was forecast by supporters of Mrs. Mason, defeated candidate for president. Delegates say it will be impossible for downstate and outlying districts to have fair representation with the new president and ten board members coming from one district. That the board for the 1927 convention will be acted upon by the board during the summer.

BEG YOUR PARDON!
In revealing conditions at Forest View, described as a stronghold of Scarface Al Brown, alias Capone, Tim Taintor yesterday quoted the police as saying the chief of police of Forest View was "Porky" Dillon, a notorious paroled convict. The chief of police really is William Dillon, who appeared before the grand jury yesterday and readily convinced them he was not "Porky" Dillon, that instead, he was a respectable married man, a printer by trade, and never in trouble in his life.

Kelley Clan Gathers for Summer Around Stonebridge House

BY NANCY R.

Stonebridge House, the William V. Kelley beautiful country place to the north and west of Lake Forest, was opened yesterday for the summer. There is a large and hospitable mansion, set in the most lovely of surroundings, with exquisite gardens, miniature lakes, wooded groves, and rolling fields. And it has always about it an air of youthful gaiety, as it is one of the favorite gathering places for the young folk hereabouts, friends of the four popular Kelley boys.

The three eldest sons are married, and the whole family expects to spend the early part of the season together. The Kelleys and their brood are from the west coast for a visit with their parents, and moved out to the country with them yesterday afternoon.

The Russell Kelleys (Mrs. Kelley is the former Daphne Field) and their energetic young son are planning to occupy a bungalow on the grounds at Stonebridge House until autumn, and the Pines Kelleys have a house in the village. With Gordon Kelley, the one bachelor of the family, at home, and the rest of the family so close at hand, there will be a round of festive parties at Stonebridge most of the season.

Girls' Stories of Pigs Flood Contest Judges

"Pig in the parlor" could have been the name of the game played yesterday in parlor 1 at the Drake hotel, where three judges were reading this way through stacks of manuscripts submitted by school girls from all over the United States as entries in the National Live Stock Meat board's story contest.

When the final tabulations are made, which may take several days, the winners will go to the Syrian relief society, which will be awarded four university scholarships, together with cash prizes totaling $2,140, according to R. C. Holbeck, general manager of the board. The judges are Dr. Louise Stanley, chief of the home economics bureau of the United States department of agriculture; Miss Margaret Pedde, home economics department, University of Nebraska; and Miss Marie Sell, home bureau editor of Pictorial Review magazine.

He's Just Waiting to Entertain Some Nice Young Girl

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"Cellulose is the bunk," writes W. A. F. "Dependancy over a disappointment in the game of hearts has made a recluse out of me for some time. But recently something has been getting the better of my gloomy moods, which I have analyzed as a well developed case of lonesomeness. Now I seek the remedy. But where?"

"It seems I do not know how to find a girl who is willing to be a real friend to me. I believe I know how to entertain fairly well, but am unable to find any one to entertain. My work is confining and presents no contact with the fair sex. A mental canvass of my friends and my friends' friends reveals no one. One remaining course is a chance public meeting, which is quite uncertain. It looks to me as though I must advertise, trust to luck, or give up. Could you pause in your work and think up some scheme whereby a lonesome bachelor might find some one who would be willing to share a bit of time occasionally in return for earnest friendship and endeavor to please? Plainly yours."

When I was younger and given to voicing opinions, with a background of blisful ignorance to support me, I used to think there was something radically wrong with a man who claimed he couldn't find a girl. But time and wider contact with people have taught me that there are men as shy and sensitive about approaching the opposite sex as women of a similar type. Also, in these men there is the same tendency to create an ideal and be content with nothing less, but times letting golden opportunities slip out of hand.

If one of either sex wants to find a companion, he or she cannot sit back and wish and find one. Action is imperative. A mental canvass of friends and friends' friends gets one nowhere. A physical canvass is something else again—productive. One does not need to advertise the fact that he or she is desirous of finding a mate. Yet there is no harm in that, either, and possibly a great deal of good might accrue from the frankness. One or two must circulate around among one's friends. And one must strive to widen that circle, creating opportunities if they are not voluntarily forthcoming.

Chicago Wasn't Much in 1857, Higgins Says

Lots at the corners of State and Lake streets were selling for $150 each May 21, 1857, when Charles M. (Daddy) Higgins first reached Chicago, the 92 year old great-grandfather declared yesterday on the sixtieth anniversary of his arrival here.

If he had stayed in this city then, instead of going on to Mendota, La Salle county, to start up in business, he'd be a millionaire today instead of an employee at the Central Trust company, Mr. Higgins reflected sadly.

"Few people realized in those days what Chicago was destined to become," he said. "People came out from the east with money to invest and took it back with them after seeing the swampy, boggy condition of this city."

On Dec. 2 he will be 93. He works every day for the Central Trust company.

Members of the Prairie club will walk from Willow Springs to Palos Park this afternoon. The route will lead through the Palos woods for eight miles. Hikers will leave the Union station at 1:30 p. m., arriving at Willow Springs at 2:30 p. m.

Children's Camp Benefit.

The teachers of Palos school are to give a card party at the Chicago Beach hotel today for the benefit of the summer camp for crippled children conducted by one of the teachers, Mrs. Florence Proby Robinson, at Twin Lake, near Plymouth, Ind.

Convention of Sorority.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Have Patience.

"Dear Miss Blake: I am 16 and love a boy of 19. He always stops to talk to me. He has never asked me to go out with him. How could I win his love? 'BRIGHT EYES.'"

Have a little patience, dear. Make him feel you're not averse to accepting invitations, and they will come.

15 Is Too Young.

"Dear Miss Blake: I am 15. Late at night school a young fellow has been paying quite a bit of attention to me. I would like to become friendly. Please advise." ANXIOUS.

Fifteen young to encourage the boys, anxious, I hardly think your parents would approve, dear. Let it be a schoolgirl and schoolboy friendship.

Everyday Folks and Their Breakfasts

H. WELLS Well-known bus driver for the Houston (Tex.) Electric Co.

"Strong" for Puffed Wheat—food that tempts with a unique deliciousness

EVERYBODY admires Harrison Wells for his good driving, his courtesy to his passengers, and his carefulness and alertness at all times.

Like scores of other men who use their minds to think, he's careful what sort of food he eats. His usual breakfast choice is the cereal food known as Puffed Wheat.

Puffed Wheat is whole wheat steam exploded to 8 times its normal size, then deliciously oven toasted so that it crunches in your mouth like fresh toast. Experts say it is the most delicious grain food known.

Approximately 20% is bran. But to eat it, you would never guess it. It proves that food that's "good" for you can tempt your palate, too. Supplies minerals and other strength-building properties of whole wheat in amazingly delicious and quickly digestible form.

It's the kind of cereal you want in your home. Try it—see how the family takes to it.

FARM AND GARDEN BY FRANK RIDGWAY

Next time you go on a tour across the midwest states take a squirt at the great clumps and borders of peonies that are springing up in farmers' lawns along the highways.

Peonies, to many persons, belong in a class with the quaint "Home Sweet Home" mottoes that once hung in homes all over the land, and because of their antique flavor and their great landscaping value the peony today is one of the most popular of the spring flowers.

As peonies open up their blossoms during the next few weeks study their colors and size of the blossoms, pick out the ones you would like and be ready to select them next September or October. They blend with all kinds of shrubbery and are hardy enough to withstand the weather wherever apple trees grow.

Ninety-three varieties are to be found now in the Iowa State college flower garden, and Volz says that Le Cygne and Mile. Jules Desert, both of French origin, are about the best varieties. The Le Cygne is ivory white in color and the Mile. Jules Desert is white, tinted with straw color, the center petals carrying waves of red. Frankie Curtis and Florence

MacBeth, domestic varieties, are also good; the Curtis strain is white with a pink tint, while the MacBeth is light pink, which deepens toward the center of the flower.

To Make Hook Rugs.

"I wonder if any of your kind readers has a quilting or hook rug frame no longer in use? I have everything necessary to work with except the frame and I am not in a position to buy one."

Now hook rugs are becoming so popular, perhaps there will be a frame for A. V. on which she may play her art.

MacBeth, domestic varieties, are also good; the Curtis strain is white with a pink tint, while the MacBeth is light pink, which deepens toward the center of the flower.
